Ohio 'Election' Due Tuesday At Girls' State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Party chairmen have been chosen in preparation for Tuesday's "statewide" elections at Buckeye Girls' State.

The 636 young Ohio women, all entering their senior year in high school, are trying to learn as much about governmental activities as they can in their limited eight-day gathering on the Capital University campus.

Vera Mincks of Columbus and Ann Giller of Shelby were selected Sunday to head the Nationalist and Federalist parties, respectively—two fictitious political groups within which the girls choose candidates for statewide, county and city offices.

Besides being arbitrarily assigned to one of the two parties, delegates to the state are also given residence in 14 mythical cities.

Elected as mayors of these cities were Barbara Helal, Bridgeport; Laura Hughes, Cleveland; Marilyn Powell, Mansfield; Nancy Ingley, Painesville; Alice Stout, Mentor; Carole Zucco, Cleveland; Patricia Ann Hesse, Napoleon; Helen Schenk, Hubbard; Lynne Richards, Lancaster; Julie Pellettiere, Parma; Shirley Eversole, Columbus Grove; Carol Sue Kelly, Ridgeway; Judith Barnes, Canton, and Connie Ankrom, Cambridge.

Tuesday is election day at Girls' State, with candidates for governor, the Legislature and judicial posts to be voted on.

The governor, whoever she may be, will be honored at an inauguration banquet Wednesday. Two bona fide Ohio officials, Gov. Frank J. Lausche and Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court, are among several dignitaries who will address the banquet.

Sunday, at the opening session of Girls' State, delegates received instructions on the formation of political parties.

Younger Brother Of Liberace Due For Court Action

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — Pianist Liberace's younger brother, Rudolph, 24, is due in court as the result of an unsuccessful search for his wife.

Rudy, a studio film editor, was arrested on suspicion of burglary after residents in Granada Hills complained he was pounding on doors with a garden hose. He was released from jail on $1,000 bail under a writ returnable Thursday.

Police said they found the younger Liberace in his car near the homes of two complaining residents. He told them he was looking for his wife, with whom he had had an argument earlier, they reported.

The officers said the suspicion of burglary booking was a technical one for investigative purposes.

Disc Jockey Plans Tour

CINCINNATI (AP)—Larry Gordon, 11-year-old radio veteran who started a disc jockey program here three years ago, is slated to leave Wednesday for a European tour that will be partly work for him.

He plans to tape-record interviews and activities in a score of countries for use at the radio station here, owned by his father, Sherwood R. Gordon.

Ileitis Recurrence Unlikely for Ike, Discoverer Says

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —The discoverer of the disease ileitis, which struck President Eisenhower, says there "should not be any recurrence" of the Illness in Eisenhower's case.

Dr. Berrill B. Crohn said the President had a "relatively mild attack." Bypassing the obstruction in the small intestine—where the disease causes its damage—"actually represents healing," Dr. Crohn said.

In about 35 per cent of the cases involving surgery, he added, there is a recurrence, but "that doesn't mean the President will get it again — he probably won't," because his attack was relatively mild.

Eisenhower is now recovering from an emergency operation nine days ago in Washington.

Dr. Crohn appeared on the NBC television program "March of Medicine," Sunday.

Guitarist in Red Norvo Band Burned to Death

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jazz guitarist Billy Dillard, 30, a member of the Red Norvo Trio, was burned to death in a fire which apparently started from a lighted cigarette.

Firemen said the fire broke out in Dillard's downstairs apartment early Sunday and quickly spread to an upstairs hall before it was brought under control.

Robert Tully, 28, a UCLA student and professional trumpet player, was seriously burned in the blaze.

Found Guilty in Murder

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—David Daniels, 40, has been found guilty of second degree murder in the fatal shooting of two men at his nearby Tick Ridge home March 18.

At his trial, Daniels claimed he shot Herbert Hoover Large, 25, and his brother, James, 32, in self defense after an argument. A Common Pleas Court jury deliberated 4½ hours Saturday night before returning the verdict.

2 School Boards Oppose Study of Crawford Merger

BUCYRUS — School boards at Holmes-Liberty and New Washington Schools have voted against participating in a county-wide survey of local rural school district reorganization in Crawford County, it was announced here today.

Meanwhile, the county's remaining eight rural schools have indicated they favor participating in a survey, which would be conducted by representatives from Ohio State University's College of Education in Columbus.

Last month, John B. Herrick, head of Ohio State's school plant division, informed county school Supt. S. K. Sollars that "failure of one or more districts to approve the proposed survey does not include the possibility of later negotiation with individual districts or groups of districts within the country."

A few of the districts indicated informally they would participate in the survey only if it were conducted on a county-wide basis.

Big Torque of the Best Sellers

IT WOULD stand to reason that automobiles selling in the same league, so to speak, would be pretty close in their engineering specifications.

Like in "torque multiplication"—the twisting force a transmission delivers to the drive shaft. (The greater the torque multiplication, the greater the performance).

But what do you find?

You find that any '56 Buick with advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow delivers a higher torque ratio than any standard-production car in America.*

And you find that this high-torque performance is one reason for Buick's best-seller standing. For Buick is now more strongly positioned in the Top 3 of the nation's biggest-selling automobiles.

That's news—and there's plenty more where that came from. For the '56 Buick is jam-packed with new engineering and styling advances to make it the best Buick yet, by far.

That new Dynaflow, for example, brings you the world's only switch-pitch performance in cars—plus a new part-throttle getaway response that's swifter, surer, and a gas-saver to boot.

The new V8 engine is 322-cubic-inches big, and packed with the highest horsepowers, the highest compressions in all Buick annals.

There's a joyous new ride, too—a new steering magic—a new "sense of direction" in your every handling maneuver.

Thing to do is come see for yourself. That way you can also look at the prices that have helped move Buick to a new sales success—outselling all other cars in America except two of the well-known smaller ones.

Will you do that, this week?

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

No Solution Seen In Youth Problem

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (INS)—An associate professor at the University of Michigan recently said additional schools and playgrounds will never solve the complex problem of juvenile delinquency.

"There is, in fact, no simple solution to this many-faceted situation," according to William C Morse of the University's psychology department.

Morse blames "gang action" for a great deal of today's juvenile problem.

47 Planes Are Flown to City For 'Air Fair'

Forty-seven planes from many parts of Ohio and surrounding states landed at the Marion Municipal Airport Sunday for a visit during the 5th annual "Air Fair" sponsored by the Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce. Breakfast was served by the Jaycee-ettes to approximately 115 people from 6 a.m. to 11 a.m. in one of the hangars at the airport.

Prizes were awarded to the youngest and oldest pilots landing here and to the pilot flying the longest distance, who came from Gary, Ind. Approximately 250 people took advantage of the plane rides being offered for one cent a pound with a $1 minimum Saturday and Sunday afternoon. Private planes donated by the Marion Air Service and piloted by Gerald Peterson, Alva Martin, C. C. (Knute) Reifsnyder and Lawrence Ryan were kept busy continually the two afternoons with people standing in line even in the rain waiting for airplane rides. Mr. Peterson and Mr. Martin are members of the Jaycees. Bud Pieracini, general chairman of the Air Fair, estimated that approximately 2,000 people visited the Marion Airport during the three-day event which started Friday evening with a round and square dance held in one of the hangars. Miss Joyce Phelps, who was selected as Miss Marion County in a contest sponsored by the Jaycees, reigned as "Miss Air Fair" at the weekend events. Miss Phelps and Miss Anna Turner, who was runner-up in the Miss Marion County contest, will represent the county at the regional contest in Kenton July 4 with the winner advancing to the Miss Ohio contest in Wooster Aug. 1-3.

Seattle Boy, 12, Tells Police He Killed Girl, 4

SEATTLE (AP) — A 12-year-old boy, plucked by police from a picnic excursion bus, calmly confessed to police Sunday night the strangulation slaying of 4½-year-old Kathryn Ruoff, the daughter of State Rep. Richard Ruoff.

The little girl's violated body, a green and white playsuit stuffed in the mouth, had been found only a few hours earlier under the floorboards of an old, unused garage near her home. She had been missing since Saturday.

Ray John Barker, one of several youngsters who used the garage as a clubhouse, was taken into custody by police as the excursion bus arrived back in town.

After a short pause, Police Officer Swindler said, the boy replied "Yes."

Swindler quoted the boy as saying in a signed confession that he met the girl at a street corner near her home Saturday and followed her when she turned down an alley and went into an abandoned garage.

Young Barker, who lives with his mother Mrs. Carmi Meske, a few blocks from the Ruoff home, told Swindler:

"I choked the little girl. I don't know why I did it."

He admitted abusing the girl sexually.

MAN OF ACTION

SASSARI, Sardinia (INS) — An elderly anarchist drew a revolver from his pocket during a speech in Sassari and asked the heckling crowd: "Do you want war or peace?" "War," the crowd shouted back jokingly. Here you are then," said the speaker. Police picked him up for wounding a young man.

Appetite Too Big, Turtle Is Donated To Zoo by Owner

BROKEN BOW, Okla (AP) — A Broken Bow man, pondering the problem of what to do with his huge turtle which he said was "eating me out of house and home," may have found the answer. Give it to the zoo.

T. R. Pate said he caught the 102-pound turtle on a troutline in Little River near here four days ago. Pate said he either would have to kill the turtle or give it away. Then he heard the Lincoln Park Zoo in Oklahoma City, was in the market for just such a turtle.

Bob Jenni, who is in charge of the zoo's reptile exhibit, said he has been seeking several big turtles for his exhibit and plans to pick up Pate's Turtle some time this week.

Prudent Farmers Able To Ride Out Price Drop

By SAM DAWSON

DES MOINES (AP) — Don't give the farmer a short count. He may be bruised but he isn't knocked out.

But you can't whack 15 per cent or so off the farmer's one-time income without Iowa and the rest of the Midwest hurting—in spite of the diversification since the end of the war.

"The good farm operator isn't crying and hasn't cried," says a country banker in daily touch with the farmers. "In the big years after the war he took his gravy—and he took care of it. The poor operators got the gravy too, but some of them didn't take care of it. Now the marginal farmers are crying hard."

SOME CALL THIS judgment harsh. However, drought and slumping farm product prices have hit hard and broadly. And although many a farmer is hurting, its chiefly the marginal one.

The farmer is still the big wheel in the economy of Iowa and the Midwest, even if the wheel has a smaller diameter than it used to. Since 1950, the dollar volume of Iowa's manufacturing output has topped that of agriculture — and that span takes in good years and bad.

But when the farmer's income drops, trade feels it. The effect can be pinpointed by store sales.

YOUNKERS, LARGEST Des Moines department store has had a drop in sales, which officials attribute mostly to the drop in farm income, chiefly when the price of hogs slid down last year. But Younker's store in Sioux City had had a much larger drop percentage wise.

Why? Younkers officials explain it this way:

Sioux City's purchasing area draws largely from farm income. Des Moines, on the other hand, has other income — manufacturing plants, insurance companies' payrolls. Over-all, in Younkers' eight Iowa stores the drop in sales volume due to farm troubles could be five to seven per cent, the store officials estimate.

"Cut a farmer's income as it has been cut and he stops buying," a store spokesman says. "And just a few percentage marks off our sales volume means a lot in the retail business in this day of rising costs of operation."

IS IT LACK OF money or lack of confidence that has stopped farm buying? Businessmen and bankers here believe it's both. Same farmers don't have any money to spend. Some have reserves but are cautious.

"A 10 to 15 per cent cut in the 10-year average income will stop a farmer from buying," says Don E. Edison, executive secretary of a cooperative, The Farmers Grain Dealers Assn. of Iowa. Like many others, he believes that the farmers who were really hurt by the setback of recent months were the postwar farmers who bought land at peak prices and lots of machinery on time.

Mechanical Items Denting Incomes

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (INS) — Money that once went onto the backs (anyway the fronts) of Americans now is going into new automobiles, television sets and dish washers.

So says a specialist in home expenditures, Lottie E. Sumner, of Purdue University.

It is her contention that during the last few years attitudes toward clothes have changed. She declared:

"The importance of clothes for prestige has changed to automobiles, home furnishings and equipment. Less of the family income is being spent for prestige dressing."

She said suburban living, earlier marriages, larger families, working mothers and more do-it-yourself housework all have contributed to the change in attitudes about what we wear.

In addition, the durability, comfort and ease-of-care offered by casual, informal clothes makes them more popular than show-off clothing, this expert believes.

But women still spend more money for clothing, than do men, and the latter still insist the ladies get less to show for their cash.

Cedar Point Host To Conference of Ohio Auto Dealers

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—Because "the highways are too crowded," Rep. George H. Fallon (D-Md), author of a current bill for federal highway aid, says he doesn't do much driving.

Fallon, who will participate today in the 50th annual meeting of the Ohio State Automobile Assn. at Cedar Point, said, "I have a car two years old and it has 9,000 miles on it. Driving is no longer a pleasure."

The legislator introduced the House version of a bill authorizing more than 24 billion dollars in federal aid to be used in a 13-year program for highway improvement.

That Certain Feeling

No one has called George M. Humphrey the greatest secretary of the U.S. Treasury since Alexander Hamilton or even Andrew Mellon, but the idea is spreading that here is a government official whose ideas about money stabilization are at the heart of the Eisenhower administration's popularity.

In 1953, the dollar's purchasing power, which had slipped from an index of 130 at the end of World War II to an index of 88.1 in 1952, was stablized at a fraction over 87 and has stayed near that point ever since.

This is Secretary Humphrey's proudest achievement. In January, 1955, he told United States News & World Report that "one of the great and real accomplishments of this administration has been the stopping of inflation."

In midsummer of 1956, he could repeat what he said almost 18 months ago—that an economy "firmly footed and self-supporting" can pump a continuous new flow of nourishment into self-betterment for Americans without fear of inflation.

He looked ahead then to savings protected against shrinkage and to increased production and increased wages and earnings made possible by investment of savings in more and better tools of production to create more jobs, better and cheaper goods and ever-growing earning power. He said this could be done if increased income were used to raise living standards, instead of being used to pay for unwise government spending as a tribute to inflation.

Those who profess not to understand why the American people have faith in the Eisenhower administration, despite the uncertainty about President Eisenhower's health, would do well to analyze popular feeling about the stability of purchasing power.

"That certain feeling" about the dollar has become a prime element in national politics.

A Blow on the Nose

New York City's transportation boss, Mike Quill, was on the public's side in last Thursday's quickie strike that tied up subway service without notice.

The strike was called by an independent union trying to move in under the Transport Workers Union, which is Boss Quill's domain. But it was called at the expense of public safety and convenience, and that is Quill's specialty.

Heroic efforts by police and subway guards were nedessary to avert panics on jammed subway platforms. Hundreds of thousands of subway riders were stranded for hours. There were so many repercussions they could not be accounted for—swamped telephone service, for example.

Once more the patient public was given cause to wonder about the responsibility of unionists who weaken their claim to immunity from many of the laws and contracts which govern the acts of others.

Unionism in the United States long since outgrew the stage in which it needed special protection to stay alive. It has grown into stage in which special protection is needed to keep it from doing injury to others.

While a minority union of subway unionists were creating an emergency in New York Thursday afternoon, the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America was adopting a resolution in its convention in Cincinnati against strikes called in a spreading "anti-labor climate."

The Meat Cutters are alert to a danger that grows every time another union hits the patient public on the nose as a demonstration of strength, with no thought of public welfare.

Let's Not Jump the Judges

There are overtones in recent criticism of the U.S. Supreme Court of the animosity whipped up against the "nine old men" by the original New Dealers.

The New Dealers were angry because members of the Supreme Court refused to find in either constitutional or statutory law the sweeping authority they wanted to wield in their "bloodless revolution."

Instead of trying to operate within the law, in accordance with its interpretation, the bloodless revolutionists would have preferred to change things in a hurry by judicial edict.

At the climax of their effort, in the late thirties, they tried to pack the Supreme Court, planning to win concessions they knew by that time they never could win by a showdown in Congress

The reaction from court-packing was bad. It took the glamor off the New Deal and let the steam out of the New Dealers. But it did not halt the American custom of jumping on judges for interpreting the law, instead of trying to interpret the changing moods of people.

It did not keep Americans who never have understood the difference between a government of law and a government of men from blaming the courts when the judges do what they are supposed to do, which is to interpret what laws say, not what pressure blocs want them to say.

The Supreme Court has adjourned until next fall, after a series of controversial decisions. But it is one thing to disagree with a decision and another to attack the Supreme Court for making it. That is the kind of attack the New Dealers used. It is unworthy of those who are using it now.

Traffic Death Probe

By James Free

This fall, Congress will turn its attention for the first time to the problem of mounting motor traffic deaths and what, if anything, the federal government can do about them.

A House subcommittee headed by Rep. Kenneth Roberts (D-Ala.) will hold public hearings in major cities in various parts of the country.

It will seek expert data on the causes of the automobile traffic mishaps that kill and maim thousands of Americans every week. It will ask for suggestions as to how this man and machine-made butchery can be curbed.

—:—

THE ALABAMIAN said his subcommittee, other members are Reps. Walter Rogers (D-Tex.), Samuel N. Friedel (D-Md.), John V. Beamer (R-Ind.) and Paul F. Schenck (R-Ohio), will launch its probe with no preconceived ideas.

"But," he explained, "there are a number of possibilities that I am sure we will want to check on and report back to the interstate and foreign committee about. Among them are:

"Should severe collision between motor vehicles result in so many deaths and injuries?

"Is speed, or lack of law enforcement of speed and traffic laws, as much of a factor as some authorities claim?

"To what extent are defects of our roads and highway responsible?

—:—

"ARE OUR MOTOR vehicles too modern for most of our present highway system?

"How can we get better drivers? Are our instruction and licensing methods adequate? After all, a driver's license is a potential weapon of destruction.

"Can we build more safety into our cars at the factory, this means more than devices like safety belts and shock-absorbing steering wheels and dashboards. It includes looking into the question of whether in our fast-changing cars we are getting a proper balance on speed and car weight and braking power."

ROBERTS' SUBCOMMITTEE already has sufficient funds available for gathering a small staff and conducting a series of hearings later this year. It expects to report back to the full committee early in 1957 with preliminary findings and perhaps some recommendations.

"This is virtually a new field so far as the federal government is concerned," said Rep. Roberts in an interview. "So far as I know no committee of Congress nor any agency of the federal government has ever tackled this problem. Some studies have been made by private individuals and a few insurance companies have investigated certain phases mostly dealing with age and risk factors with an eye on what premiums to charge for accident insurance."

HE SAID THE American Medical Association has been working in this field and will have a panel discussion on the subject at its next annual meeting. The subcommittee will want advice, he said, from doctors, insurance firms, users of mass transportation like the armed forces; bus, taxicab and trucking concerns; city, county and state authorities; automobile manufacturers; railroads (for suggestions about grade-crossings); and others.

"If we can come up with something really constructive and practical in the way of a legislative approach," Rep. Roberts said, "the results could be tremendous. Not only in reducing the number of deaths and injuries, although that would be the most important thing. But in ways that could help those lucky or careful persons who never have traffic accidents. It could, for instance, mean paying less for automobile insurance protection."

SHAPE Morale Ebbs

VERSAILLES

Morale was never lower among SHAPE officers. Their feeling is that the 15-nation military orgaization for which they function as "brain" has struck a dead end.

"We're among the living dead," a British officer said.

This is the sentiment not only among U.S. and British staff members but also officers of countries like The Netherlands and Denmark, whose governments recently have displayed a growing lack of enthusiasm for NATO's military burdens in view of the diminished threat of war.

NATO officers seldom consciously reflect their national political viewpoint. The military mind here has come to be very much an international one.

IN SEVEN YEARS, officers at the rambling, unpretentious SHAPE headquarters outside Versailles have achieved a "supranational" outlook to an astonishing degree. Even those stationed here only a short time—U.S. officers usually are assigned only for 18 months—quickly get the NATO point of view, a frame of mind not always entirely pleasing to their policital superiors or even their general staffs at home.

Much of this unquestionably is owed to the examples set by the successive American Supreme Commanders — Eisenhower, Ridgway and Gruenther — and to the single deputy commander since NATO's inception, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, who operates not from Versailles but from his headquarters at nearby Fontainebleau.

IN THIS RESPECT, NATO has been an outstanding success. If there has been a single exception, it has been among the French officers who throughout NATO's existence have been preoccupied with other military problems, first Indochina, now North Africa.

But the outlook even among those most thoroughly "sold" on the organizaton is extremely gloomy. The concensus appears to be that the steps now being studied to expand NATO's role, giving it economic as well as military functions, will ultimately mean deemphasizing its military side.

"The handwriting is on the wall," an American colonel exclaimed. In a year or two, we will be hardly more than a skeleton organization.

U.S. officers who used to regard NATO as the cream of assignments are beginning to ask for transfers, even though living conditions at SHAPE, close to Paris, are among the best of any overseas post. The same trend reportedly is even more evident among officers of other nationalities.

"IT'S A SIGN," the U.S. colonel said frankly, "that we are becoming a backwater. Officers are afraid a long assignment here may hinder their advancement, or at least not help it. They would rather be in the field with the troops."

NATO never has been more than a half-grown giant. It has not come close to attaining the strength set for it by the Lisbon NATO Council meeting of 1951. Except for a bare increase in air effectives, it has made no progress since 1953.

Instead of the 50 divisions once called the absolute minimum required, NATO can scrape together only 17.

"If that is all we got when war was thought likely," asked one American officer. "What will we get now that everybody says it's all but impossible?"

Court Postpones 'Day of Decision'

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The Supreme Court's nine justices, target for more attacks than any high court in a generation, made historic decisions on civil rights, civil liberties and the power of the states in the session just ended.

But it could be considered 100 per cent consistent only in its opposition to racial segregation in public places. It showed great concern for individuals. But it did not always rule in their favor against the states.

Nevertheless, Southerners attack it for its stand on segregation. And states' righters, including Southerners, want the court "curbed" for the restraint it put on the actions of states, or for knocking out their laws.

THE COURT, in the term which ended last week, outlawed segregation in tax-supported colleges and universities and in public places of recreation. This followed up its ban in 1954 on public school segregation.

But it avoided throwing another log on the racial fire when it was asked to rule whether segregation on buses within a state is also unlawful. It tossed the problem back to a lower court.

This only postponed the day of decision. The problem will eventually come back to the high court for a final answer, which may be given late in 1956 or sometime in 1957.

BUT THE PATTERN was not quite so consistent in the fields of civil liberties, states' rights, and the powers of the federal government.

The court ruled the government must have "good cause" for trying to deprive a man of citizenship through denaturalization proceedings. And it knocked a hole in President Eisenhower's program for getting "security risks" out of government jobs. It decided the program can't apply to workers in nonsensitive jobs.

But it upheld the 1954 immunity law. This law says a man can't escape testifying before a federal grand jury or in court by pleading the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination if, in order to learn what he knows, the government promises him immunity from prosecution for anything he says.

THE COURT RULED a New York public school teacher could not be fired simply because he pleaded the Fifth Amendment when asked questions about Communist party membership. States' righters looked on this as an intrusion on states' rights.

But the court refused to hear the plea of a California public school teacher who was fired for not answering a couple of questions about Communist membership. The questions were described as relevant to his fitness for public employment.

And the court upheld the right of a private firm in California to fire a woman for "just cause" on grounds she was a Communist.

The decision which brought the loudest protests from states' righters was the court's ruling that sedition against the United States can be prosecuted only in federal courts, although about 42 states have some kind of sedition laws.

The Supreme Court also said a state court can't stop peaceful picketing by a labor union whose officials refuse to comply with the Taft-Hartley labor law's non-Communist affidavit requirement.

THE COURT ALSO took these actions against states:

It said they must provide adequate means for poor persons to appeal criminal convictions, but not necessarily free stenographic transcript of trials.

And, although many states have "right-to-work" laws—bans on union shops—the court knocked them out so far as railway unions are concerned. It didn't say whether they are valid for other unions.

Yet—the court upheld the rights of states to prohibit mass picketing, violence and threats of violence by strikers. It said the federal Taft-Hartley labor law doesn't provide the only means for controlling such disorders.

And, on the side of the states, the court said military housing projects built and operated by private firms on government land are subject to state and local property taxes.

From One Who Knows

By TRUMAN TWILL

It is a crying shame, as far as I'm concerned, that President Eisenhower and I never will get together to swap notes on Our Operations.

For the first time, I have something to contribute to a conversation with a chief executive of the United States. I don't know beans about foreign aid or any of the ponderous matters he is supposed to grasp in a wink, but having been through the works on the same kind of operation he had I could tell him a thing or two about that.

Take that little tube, for example — the one the papers say the doctors ran up his nose, down his throat and into his stomach to take the strain off his digestive apparatus while it was pulling itself together after his operation. There is only one way to live with that baby, and that is to learn how to manipulate the rascal when the nurse isn't looking.

The secret is to find out as much about it as the nurses know, then to take advantage of this knowledge on the sly to make the tube bearable. There is a little clamp on the thing somewhere between you and the pump that is hidden on the lower deck of the bedside stand, Mr. President. When the going gets rough, you reach out a furtive hand and undo the clamp, Mr. President, and whoosh! That does it. You get pumped out in a hurry.

Then there is the matter of the discomfort caused by the tube where it makes the loop down the throat after coming up the old proboscis. You ease that off, sir, by pretending you are scratching your nose but what you really are doing is to put slack in the tube to keep it from rubbing on the place where the loop is.

This will bring down the wrath of of all the fuss-budgets in uniform, and they will be stern about it. But they cannot keep a man from scratching his nose — certainly not when the patient is president of the United States.

And about that first unsupported stroll after the croaker has taken out the stitches or clamps, or whatever was used — there's a secret to that, too, Mr. President.

The secret is to keep veering in the direction the tenderness in the midriff makes you want to veer in. This will conceal your list to port or starboard, as the case may be, and fool the observers into concluding it is time to let you go home, where you can list in whatever direction feels good.

But here is what we really would like to tell the President—about caviar. The trick after one of these plumbing-repair jobs is to recapture that wonderful hungry feeling, the one that makes a patient feel he could eat a horse if he could corner it.

Caviar is best. There's something about sturgeon eggs well salted that gratifies the innards of a digestive patient as nothing else can. Doctors do not know this, being addicts of broth and various innocuous goops that are what some other doctor once ordered for a digestive patient.

Have Mrs. Eisenhower smuggle in a little jar of caviar, Mr. President, and slurp it up on the sly. The medical practitioners will be overjoyed at the results. Since most caviar comes from Russia, international relations will be firmed up, to boot.

And another thing, Mr. President. Don't try to chop wood. It will tear you apart. Golf? Maybe, but take it easy. Take it from one who knows; there will be a hitch in your backswing for a long time to come. The doctors never have learned how to sew in gussets. They just take in tucks.

Russia's Military Aircraft

If a stranger were permitted to eavesdrop on a Pentagon conversation about all these new hot Russian airplanes, he might think he was in a zoo.

A conversation, improbably but unquestionably authentic, could go like this:

"Now you take that Bison, the Bear or the Badger. Or what about the Beagle, the Hare, the Hound or the Horse? And don't underestimate the Beast, the Bat, the Moose, the Mink or the Mule."

That's right, these are NATO code names for only a dozen of some 40 Russian aircraft of all types and the public needs a better familiarization with such names if it is to get a full understanding of the sad news that Russia reportedly is forging ahead of the United States in military aircraft production.

Bison, Bear and Badger are strategic bombers. Gen. Earle E. Partridge, commanding the Continental Air Defense Command, has warned that the Bison, comparable with America's Boeing G-52 intercontinental bomber, would have little or no trouble coping with such important fighters like America's F89 Scorpion, the F-86D Sabrejet or Lockheed's F45C Starfire, among the mainstays of this country's air defense.

In the tactical bomber class, Russia has the Beagle and Bosun, according to the NATO code name lists. The latter is known to be a torpedo bomber in the 500 m.p.h. class. And Russian fighters include the Flashlight, which can also be used as a light bomber capable of 600 miles an hour. Other Soviet fighters include the Fresco, Farmer, Frank and Fagot, most of them capable of high speed and altitude.

Russia's support aircraft, which range in speed from about 300 to 500 m.p.h. contain, in the bomber class, the Beast, Bat, Butcher, Bull and Barge. The Bull, for instance, is a copy of Boeing's B29. The Bat is used in Chinese and Polish service. The Barge was a turboprop testbed for the Bear, which also has intercontinental range.

The Soviet Union has many support fighters with interesting NATO code names. They include Flora, Feather, Fin, Fritz, Fang, Fargo and Fantail. Some of them are first-class twin-jets, others are considered second-line.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Letter for Special Delivery

Mr. Paul Butler, Chairman
Democratic National Committee.
Dear Paul:

I see where you have charged that Ike's doctors have "gone too far in creating a political-medical science" and that the sick-room bulletins and their usage had a propaganda angle. I know you don't intend it but, gosh, Paul, you have created an impression you are unhappy that the bulletins showed Ike wasn't in worse shape.

You could win an Oscar for Unfair Pokes at the medical profession, President's physicians, presidential secretaries, sick-room charts, nurses and sick Republicans in general. In my book you are wrong, on account of Democrats welcome good news from a sick-room as happily as anybody else, and few were upset by the bulletins that the President was not as sick as feared.

I DON'T DIG your reaction. You don't want sick-room news gloomier, do you? You don't want surgeons passed on for political affiliations?

Gosh, Paul, I thought the bulletins plenty distressing. 'His pulse, blood pressure, temperature and respiration are essentially normal. Appropriate antibiotics were administered. He is still on an intrevenous diet," one bulletin said. (Izzat too political? Do you think mention of an intravenous diet too helpful to a Republican?)

"He is getting glucose and water. He slept at intervals and had three small doses of Demarol," Secretary Hagerty said. (Is it unfair to the Democratic Party to say that much and are you hinting that he didn't sleep at all and got five doses of Demarol, which would be enough to defeat him in November if the public knew?)

The press asked if Ike slept in a special bed like in Denver and Hagerty said, "No. He is in a regular hospital bed." (Is there political propaganda in reference to hospital beds and would it be cleaner politics if Hagerty had Ike sleeping in a Denver-type bed?)

—:—

"HE WALKED FIFTEEN feet and back and sat in a chair with his feet on an ottoman," said one bulletin. (I hope you don't want official linesmen to measure distances, Paul Or maybe you want ottoman kept out of this campaign.)

That Certain Feeling

No one has called George M. Humphrey the greatest secretary of the U.S. Treasury since Alexander Hamilton or even Andrew Mellon, but the idea is spreading that here is a government official whose ideas about money stabilization are at the heart of the Eisenhower administration's popularity.

In 1953, the dollar's purchasing power, which had slipped from an index of 130 at the end of World War II to an index of 88.1 in 1952, was stablized at a fraction over 87 and has stayed near that point ever since.

This is Secretary Humphrey's proudest achievement. In January, 1955, he told United States News & World Report that "one of the great and real accomplishments of this administration has been the stopping of inflation."

In midsummer of 1956, he could repeat what he said almost 18 months ago—that an economy "firmly footed and self-supporting" can pump a continuous new flow of nourishment into self-betterment for Americans without fear of inflation

He looked ahead then to savings protected against shrinkage and to increased production and increased wages and earnings made possible by investment of savings in more and better tools of production to create more jobs, better and cheaper goods and ever-growing earning power. He said this could be done if increased income were used to raise living standards, instead of being used to pay for unwise government spending as a tribute to inflation.

Those who profess not to understand why the American people have faith in the Eisenhower administration, despite the uncertainty about President Eisenhower's health, would do well to analyze popular feeling about the stability of purchasing power.

"That certain feeling" about the dollar has become a prime element in national politics.

A Blow on the Nose

New York City's transportation boss, Mike Quill, was on the public's side in last Thursday's quickie strike that tied up subway service without notice.

The strike was called by an independent union trying to move in under the Transport Workers Union, which is Boss Quill's domain. But it was called at the expense of public safety and convenience, and that is Quill's specialty.

Heroic efforts by police and subway guards were nedessary to avert panics on jammed subway platforms. Hundreds of thousands of subway riders were stranded for hours. There were so many repercussions they could not be accounted for—swamped telephone service, for example.

Once more the patient public was given cause to wonder about the responsibility of unionists who weaken their claim to immunity from many of the laws and contracts which govern the acts of others.

Unionism in the United States long since outgrew the stage in which it needed special protection to stay alive. It has grown into stage in which special protection is needed to keep it from doing injury to others.

While a minority union of subway unionists were creating an emergency in New York Thursday afternoon, the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America was adopting a resolution in its convention in Cincinnati against strikes called in a spreading "anti-labor climate."

The Meat Cutters are alert to a danger that grows every time another union hits the patient public on the nose as a demonstration of strength, with no thought of public welfare.

Let's Not Jump the Judges

There are overtones in recent criticism of the U.S. Supreme Court of the animosity whipped up against the "nine old men" by the original New Dealers

The New Dealers were angry because members of the Supreme Court refused to find in either constitutional or statutory law the sweeping authority they wanted to wield in their "bloodless revolution."

Instead of trying to operate within the law, in accordance with its interpretation, the bloodless revolutionists would have preferred to change things in a hurry by judicial edict.

At the climax of their effort, in the late thirties, they tried to pack the Supreme Court, planning to win concessions they knew by that time they never could win by a showdown in Congress

The reaction from court-packing was bad. It took the glamor off the New Deal and let the steam out of the New Dealers But it did not halt the American custom of jumping on judges for interpreting the law, instead of trying to interpret the changing moods of people.

It did not keep Americans who never have understood the difference between a government of law and a government of men from blaming the courts when the judges do what they are supposed to do, which is to interpret what laws say, not what pressure blocs want them to say.

The Supreme Court has adjourned until next fall, after a series of controversial decisions. But it is one thing to disagree with a decision and another to attack the Supreme Court for making it That is the kind of attack the New Dealers used. It is unworthy of those who are using it now.

Traffic Death Probe

By James Free

This fall, Congress will turn its attention for the first time to the problem of mounting motor traffic deaths and what, if anything, the federal government can do about them.

A House subcommittee headed by Rep. Kenneth Roberts (D-Ala.) will hold public hearings in major cities in various parts of the country.

It will seek expert data on the causes of the automobile traffic mishaps that kill and maim thousands of Americans every week. It will ask for suggestions as to how this man and machine-made butchery can be curbed.

—:—

THE ALABAMIAN said his subcommittee, other members are Reps. Walter Rogers (D-Tex.), Samuel N. Friedel (D-Md.), John V. Beamer (R-Ind.) and Paul F. Schenck (R-Ohio), will launch its probe with no preconceived ideas.

"But," he explained, "there are a number of possibilities that I am sure we will want to check on and report back to the interstate and foreign committee about. Among them are:

"Should severe collision between motor vehicles result in so many deaths and injuries?

"Is speed, or lack of law enforcement of speed and traffic laws, as much of a factor as some authorities claim?

"To what extent are defects of our roads and highway responsible?

—:—

"ARE OUR MOTOR vehicles too modern for most of our present highway system?

"How can we get better drivers? Are our instruction and licensing methods adequate? After all, a driver's license is a potential weapon of destruction.

"Can we build more safety into our cars at the factory, this means more than devices like safety belts and shock-absorbing steering wheels and dashboards. It includes looking into the question of whether in our fast-changing cars we are getting a proper balance on speed and car weight and braking power."

ROBERTS' SUBCOMMITTEE already has sufficient funds available for gathering a small staff and conducting a series of hearings later this year. It expects to report back to the full committee early in 1957 with preliminary findings and perhaps some recommendations.

"This is virtually a new field so far as the federal government is concerned," said Rep. Roberts. in an interview. "So far as I know no committee of Congress nor any agency of the federal government has ever tackled this problem. Some studies have been made by private individuals and a few insurance companies have investigated certain phases mostly dealing with age and risk factors with an eye on what premiums to charge for accident insurance."

HE SAID THE American Medical Association has been working in this field and will have a panel discussion on the subject at its next annual meeting. The subcommittee will want advice, he said, from doctors, insurance firms, users of mass transportation like the armed forces; bus, taxicab and trucking concerns; city, county and state authorities; automobile manufacturers; railroads (for suggestions about grade-crossings); and others.

"If we can come up with something really constructive and practical in the way of a legislative approach," Rep. Roberts said, "the results could be tremendous. Not only in reducing the number of deaths and injuries, although that would be the most important thing. But in ways that could help those lucky or careful persons who never have traffic accidents. It could, for instance, mean paying less for automobile insurance protection."

SHAPE Morale Ebbs

VERSAILLES

Morale was never lower among SHAPE officers. Their feeling is that the 15-nation military orgaization for which they function as "brain" has struck a dead end.

"We're among the living dead," a British officer said.

This is the sentiment not only among U.S. and British staff members but also officers of countries like The Netherlands and Denmark, whose governments recently have displayed a growing lack of enthusiasm for NATO's military burdens in view of the diminished threat of war.

NATO officers seldom consciously reflect their national political viewpoint. The military mind here has come to be very much an international one.

IN SEVEN YEARS, officers at the rambling, unpretentious SHAPE headquarters outside Versailles have achieved a "supranational" outlook to an astonishing degree. Even those stationed here only a short time—U.S. officers usually are assigned only for 18 months—quickly get the NATO point of view, a frame of mind not always entirely pleasing to their policital superiors or even their general staffs at home.

Much of this unquestionably is owed to the examples set by the successive American Supreme Commanders — Eisenhower, Ridgway and Gruenther — and to the single deputy commander since NATO's inception, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, who operates not from Versailles but from his headquarters at nearby Fontainebleau.

IN THIS RESPECT, NATO has been an outstanding success. If there has been a single exception, it has been among the French officers who throughout NATO's existence have been preoccupied with other military problems, first Indochina, now North Africa.

But the outlook even among those most thoroughly "sold" on the organizaton is extremely gloomy. The concensus appears to be that the steps now being studied to expand NATO's role, giving it economic as well as military functions, will ultimately mean deemphasizing its military side.

"The handwriting is on the wall," an American colonel exclaimed. In a year or two, we will be hardly more than a skeleton organization.

U.S. officers who used to regard NATO as the cream of assignments are beginning to ask for transfers, even though living conditions at SHAPE, close to Paris, are among the best of any overseas post. The same trend reportedly is even more evident among officers of other nationalities.

—:—

"IT'S A SIGN," the U.S. colonel said frankly. "that we are becoming a backwater. Officers are afraid a long assignment here may hinder their advancement, or at least not help it. They would rather be in the field with the troops."

NATO never has been more than a half-grown giant. It has not come close to attaining the strength set for it by the Lisbon NATO Council meeting of 1951. Except for a bare increase in air effectives, it has made no progress since 1953.

Instead of the 50 divisions once called the absolute minimum required, NATO can scrape together only 17.

"If that is all we got when war was thought likely," asked one American officer. "What will we get now that everybody says it's all but impossible?"

Court Postpones 'Day of Decision'

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The Supreme Court's nine justices, target for more attacks than any high court in a generation, made historic decisions on civil rights, civil liberties and the power of the states in the session just ended.

But it could be considered 100 per cent consistent only in its opposition to racial segregation in public places. It showed great concern for individuals. But it did not always rule in their favor against the states.

Nevertheless, Southerners attack it for its stand on segregation. And states' righters, including Southerners, want the court "curbed" for the restraint it put on the actions of states, or for knocking out their laws.

—:—

THE COURT, in the term which ended last week, outlawed segregation in tax-supported colleges and universities and in public places of recreation. This followed up its ban in 1954 on public school segregation.

But it avoided throwing another log on the racial fire when it was asked to rule whether segregation on buses within a state is also unlawful. It tossed the problem back to a lower court.

This only postponed the day of decision. The problem will eventually come back to the high court for a final answer, which may be given late in 1956 or sometime in 1957.

—:—

BUT THE PATTERN was not quite so consistent in the fields of civil liberties, states' rights, and the powers of the federal government.

The court ruled the government must have "good cause" for trying to deprive a man of citizenship through denaturalization proceedings. And it knocked a hole in President Eisenhower's program for getting "security risks" out of government jobs. It decided the program can't apply to workers in nonsensitive jobs.

But it upheld the 1954 immunity law. This law says a man can't escape testifying before a federal grand jury or in court by pleading the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination if, in order to learn what he knows, the government promises him immunity from prosecution for anything he says.

—:—

THE COURT RULED a New York public school teacher could not be fired simply because he pleaded the Fifth Amendment when asked questions about Communist party membership. States' righters looked on this as an intrusion on states' rights.

But the court refused to hear the plea of a California public school teacher who was fired for not answering a couple of questions about Communist membership. The questions were described as relevant to his fitness for public employment.

And the court upheld the right of a private firm in California to fire a woman for "just cause" on grounds she was a Communist

The decision which brought the loudest protests from states' righters was the court's ruling that sedition against the United States can be prosecuted only in federal courts, although about 42 states have some kind of sedition laws.

The Supreme Court also said a state court can't stop peaceful picketing by a labor union whose officials refuse to comply with the Taft-Hartley labor law's non-Communist affidavit requirement.

—:—

THE COURT ALSO took these actions against states

It said they must provide adequate means for poor persons to appeal criminal convictions, but not necessarily free stenographic transcript of trials.

And, although many states have "right-to-work" laws—bans on union shops—the court knocked them out so far as railway unions are concerned. It didn't say whether they are valid for other unions.

Yet—the court upheld the rights of states to prohibit mass picketing, violence and threats of violence by strikers. It said the federal Taft-Hartley labor law doesn't provide the only means for controlling such disorders.

And, on the side of the states, the court said military housing projects built and operated by private firms on government land are subject to state and local property taxes.

From One Who Knows

By TRUMAN TWILL

It is a crying shame, as far as I'm concerned, that President Eisenhower and I never will get together to swap notes on Our Operations.

For the first time, I have something to contribute to a conversation with a chief executive of the United States. I don't know beans about foreign aid or any of the ponderous matters he is supposed to grasp in a wink, but having been through the works on the same kind of operation he had I could tell him a thing or two about that.

Take that little tube, for example — the one the papers say the doctors ran up his nose, down his throat and into his stomach to take the strain off his digestive apparatus while it was pulling itself together after his operation. There is only one way to live with that baby, and that is to learn how to manipulate the rascal when the nurse isn't looking.

The secret is to find out as much about it as the nurses know, then to take advantage of this knowledge on the sly to make the tube bearable. There is a little clamp on the thing somewhere between you and the pump that is hidden on the lower deck of the bedside stand, Mr. President. When the going gets rough, you reach out a furtive hand and undo the clamp, Mr. President, and whoosh! That does it. You get pumped out in a hurry.

Then there is the matter of the discomfort caused by the tube where it makes the loop down the throat after coming up the old proboscis. You ease that off, sir, by pretending you are scratching your nose but what you really are doing is to put slack in the tube to keep it from rubbing on the place where the loop is.

This will bring down the wrath of of all the fuss-budgets in uniform, and they will be stern about it. But they cannot keep a man from scratching his nose — certainly not when the patient is president of the United States.

And about that first unsupported stroll after the croaker has taken out the stitches or clamps, or whatever was used — there's a secret to that, too, Mr. President.

The secret is to keep veering in the direction the tenderness in the midriff makes you want to veer in. This will conceal your list to port or starboard, as the case may be, and fool the observers into concluding it is time to let you go home, where you can list in whatever direction feels good.

But here is what we really would like to tell the President—about caviar. The trick after one of these plumbing-repair jobs is to recapture that wonderful hungry feeling, the one that makes a patient feel he could eat a horse if he could corner it.

Caviar is best. There's something about sturgeon eggs well salted that gratifies the innards of a digestive patient as nothing else can. Doctors do not know this, being addicts of broth and various innocuous goops that are what some other doctor once ordered for a digestive patient.

Have Mrs. Eisenhower smuggle in a little jar of caviar, Mr. President, and slurp it up on the sly. The medical practitioners will be overjoyed at the results. Since most caviar comes from Russia, international relations will be firmed up, to boot.

And another thing, Mr. President. Don't try to chop wood. It will tear you apart. Golf? Maybe, but take it easy. Take it from one who knows; there will be a hitch in your backswing for a long time to come. The doctors never have learned how to sew in gussets. They just take in tucks.

Russia's Military Aircraft

If a stranger were permitted to eavesdrop on a Pentagon conversation about all these new hot Russian airplanes, he might think he was in a zoo.

A conversation, improbably but unquestionably authentic, could go like this:

"Now you take that Bison, the Bear or the Badger. Or what about the Beagle, the Hare, the Hound or the Horse? And don't underestimate the Beast, the Bat, the Moose, the Mink or the Mule."

That's right, these are NATO code names for only a dozen of some 40 Russian aircraft of all types and the public needs a better familiarization with such names if it is to get a full understanding of the sad news that Russia reportedly is forging ahead of the United States in military aircraft production.

Bison, Bear and Badger are strategic bombers. Gen. Earle E Partridge, commanding the Continental Air Defense Command, has warned that the Bison, comparable with America's Boeing G-52 intercontinental bomber, would have little or no trouble coping with such important fighters like America's F89 Scorpion, the F-86D Sabrejet or Lockheed's F45C Starfire, among the mainstays of this country's air defense.

In the tactical bomber class, Russia has the Beagle and Bosun, according to the NATO code name lists. The latter is known to be a torpedo bomber in the 500 m.p.h. class. And Russian fighters include the Flashlight, which can also be used as a light bomber capable of 600 miles an hour Other Soviet fighters include the Fresco, Farmer, Frank and Fagot, most of them capable of high speed and altitude.

Russia's support aircraft, which range in speed from about 300 to 500 m.p.h contain, in the bomber class, the Beast, Bat, Butcher, Bull and Barge. The Bull, for instance, is a copy of Boeing's B29. The Bat is used in Chinese and Polish service. The Barge was a turboprop testbed for the Bear, which also has intercontinental range.

The Soviet Union has many support fighters with interesting NATO code names. They include Flora, Feather, Fin, Fritz, Fang, Fargo and Fantail. Some of them are first-class twin-jets, others are considered second-line

The Once Over

Letter for Special Delivery

Mr. Paul Butler, Chairman
Democratic National Committee,
Dear Paul:

I see where you have charged that Ike's doctors have "gone too far in creating a political-medical science" and that the sick-room bulletins and their usage had a propaganda angle. I know you don't intend it but, gosh, Paul, you have created an impression you are unhappy that the bulletins showed Ike wasn't in worse shape.

You could win an Oscar for Unfair Pokes at the medical profession, President's physicians, presidential secretaries, sick-room charts, nurses and sick Republicans in general. In my book you are wrong, on account of Democrats welcome good news from a sick-room as happily as anybody else, and few were upset by the bulletins that the President was not as sick as feared.

I DON'T DIG your reaction. You don't want sick-room news gloomier, do you? You don't want surgeons passed on for political affiliations?

Gosh, Paul, I thought the bulletins plenty distressing. His pulse, blood pressure, temperature and respiration are essentially normal. Appropriate antibiotics were administered. He is still on an intrevenous diet," one bulletin said. (Izzat too political? Do you think mention of an intravenous diet too helpful to a Republican?)

"He is getting glucose and water He slept at intervals and had three small doses of Demarol," Secretary Hagerty said (Is it unfair to the Democratic Party to say that much and are you hinting that he didn't sleep at all and got five doses of Demarol, which would be enough to defeat him in November if the public knew?)

The press asked if Ike slept in a special bed like in Denver and Hagerty said, "No. He is in a regular hospital bed" (Is there political propaganda in reference to hospital beds and would it be cleaner politics if Hagerty had Ike sleeping in a Denver-type bed?)

—:—

"HE WALKED FIFTEEN feet and back and sat in a chair with his feet on an ottoman," said one bulletin. (I hope you don't want official linesmen to measure distances, Paul Or maybe you want ottoman kept out of this campaign.)

"The physicians agreed the President should be able to resume his full duties in from four to six weeks," a bulletin said. Dr. Heaton added the opinion the operation would make him a better risk than before. Is that political?

Could it be you would take a cue from the financial pages and have a clause under each sick-room bulletin which would read, "While the above statements are believed to be authentic, they are not guaranteed"?

Woman Badly Hurt in Area Auto Collision

A four-car accident one and one-half miles north of Nevada Sunday afternoon left one woman in critical condition in the Wyandot Memorial Hospital. The accident was investigated by state patrolmen from the Bucyrus post.

Patrolmen said a patrol car driven by Patrolman Stanley Smith, 30, of near Bucyrus was escorting a car driven by Harold Zimmerman, 42, of Galion, to the mayor's court at Nevada for hearing on an alleged traffic violation by Zimmerman.

Officers said Patrolman Smith stopped on Route 231 at the intersection of Route 30-N to allow traffic to pass. Zimmerman stopped and a car driven by Clarence Good, 49, of Lorain stopped, Ptl. Smith said. A car driven by Ruby Emptage, 64, of near LaRue was unable to stop, according to the patrol report, and her car struck the rear of Good's car, pushing it into Zimmerman's car which in turn went into the rear of the patrol car.

The LaRue area woman required treatment at Wyandot Memorial Hospital in Upper Sandusky for shock and bruises and a passenger in her car, Lillie Thoman, 86, of near LaRue was critically injured with head and internal injuries and fractures of both wrists.

The car in which the women were riding and Good's car were demolished, the patrol report indicated. Considerable damage was done to Zimmerman's car, and minor damage to the patrol car, the report said.

Three Injured As Car Runs Off Route 23

Residents of Upper Sandusky Hurt in One of 4 Accidents

Three persons were injured in one of four traffic accidents in Marion County over the weekend and today, Marion state highway patrolmen reported. City police reported eight minor accidents.

Admitted to Marion General Hospital following a one-car mishap on Route 23, 4.7 miles north of Marion, at 1 a.m. Sunday were:

Ethel Hare, 32, of Upper Sandusky, driver of the car, who received lacerations of the face and head.

Dwight Hare, also 32, of the same address, a fractured and dislocated cervicial spine, who has been removed to University Hospital in Columbus.

Charles Williams, 20, also of Upper Sandusky, severe lacerations of the forehead and a broken right shoulder bone.

Auto Rolls Over

Patrolmen reported the three Upper Sandusky residents were injured when the northbound car driven by Ethel Hare left the road on the right hand side on a curve and rolled over several times.

The car was demolished. Hughes and Boyd ambulances took the injured to the hospital.

A 22-year-old Morral youth escaped injury when the car he was driving overturned 2.6 miles north of Route 203 on County Rd. 83 at 6:45 a.m. today.

Dallas L. Campbell was traveling south and rounding a curve when he lost control of his car, patrolmen said. The car went across the highway and turned sideways, then turned over on its top and skidded back onto the road and came to rest on the east berm of the highway. The car was demolished.

A truck and a car collided in a mishap at 2:03 p.m. yesterday, 5.7 miles south of Marion on Route 4.

Car Hit by Truck

Patrolmen reported a car driven by Gene A. Little, 24, of 313 Uncapher Ave., headed south, was struck from the rear by a truck operated by James Holder, 46, of Carbondale, Ill.

Little was slowing down to turn east onto Route 203 when the accident occurred, patrolmen said. Minor damage to the front of the truck and moderate damage to the right rear of the car resulted.

Both drivers were given citations. Little was charged with failure to signal his intentions of turning and will appear Tuesday in Marion Municipal Court. Holder was fined $15 and costs by Judge W Dexter Hazen on a charge of failure to stop within the assured clear distance.

The remaining accident was a hit-skip mishap in LaRue Friday at 5:45 p.m.

According to patrolmen, a parked car owned by LeRoy Hildebrand, 31, of LaRue was struck by a car which failed to stop.

Gene Allen Glenn, 25, of 507 S. Main St., was later apprehended near Big Springs, O., by a patrol car from the Bellefontaine post and charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Appearing in Municipal Court today, he pleaded not guilty and his hearing was set for June 27.

There was minor damage to the left side of the Glenn car and to the left rear end of the Hildebrand vehicle, patrolmen said.

8 Accidents in City

Eight minor traffic accidents were investigated over the weekend by Marion police.

A collision at E. Center and Sargent Sts. at 3.06 p.m. Saturday involved cars driven by Eugene Kirk, 30, of near Marion, and J. F. Ward, 52, of 152 Barnhart St., police reported.

Cars driven by Orland E. Beveridge, 26, of 362 Leader St. and Ezell Showers, 39, of 203 Fies Ave collided at approximately the same spot on Sunday, police said.

A collision at S. Prospect and W. Columbia Sts. at 11:09 a.m Saturday involved cars driven by A. M. Lorentzsen, 36, of 269 Windsor St. and G. L. Jones, 37, of 316 Linden Pl., police reported.

Each of the ther five accidents in the city caused less than $100 total damage, police estimated.

The body was removed to the Curl Funeral Home in Cardington where arrangements for the funeral are being made.

Two Other Accidents

Seven other persons were injured in two other traffic accidents investigated by Marion state highway patrolmen in Morrow County over the weekend.

Six of them were injured in a two-car crash on Route 42, seven-tenths of a mile north of Route 19, at 4:50 a.m. Sunday.

Injured were:

Glenn M. Anderson, 41, of Mansfield, driver of one of the cars, who received a bruised right shoulder and right arm.

Martin A. Berg, 29, of South Euclid, O., driver of the other car, laceration of the forehead.

Bert Collen, 21, of South Euclid, a passenger in the Berg car, bruised back and bruised right leg.

Ernest Anderson of Mansfield, a passenger in the Anderson vehicle, broken right arm.

Ralph Frazier of Memphis, Tenn., also a passenger in the Anderson car, lacerations of the left forearm and body bruises.

Harold Grogg, 19, of Loudenville, a passenger in the Berg vehicle, lacerations of the chin and a sprained right ankle.

All were treated and released from Morrow County Hospital at Mount Gilead.

Marion state highway patrolmen said Berg was headed north and Anderson was traveling south when the accident occurred. According to patrolmen, Berg started to pass another northbound vehicle when he noticed Anderson approaching. Both drivers pulled off onto the berm, patrolmen said, and then came back up on the highway where the cars collided in the center of the road.

The front ends of both cars were considerably damaged. Berg, arrested on a charge of passing without the assured clear distance ahead, was fined $15 and costs by Mayor Emery Murphy of Mount Gilead.

The other accident involved one vehicle and occurred on Route 95, 3.4 miles west of the Morrow-Richland County line at 4 a.m. Saturday.

Patrolmen reported a car driven by Martin Rice, 49, of near Marion, westbound, left the road and overturned. The car left the road on the left hand side as it approached a bridge and turned over on its top in a creek

The car was demolished and Rice was treated for lacerations and bruises of the face and head, then released from Galion City Hospital.

Ike

When Nixon met with reporters, the first question put to him was whether he got any impression as to whether Eisenhower intends to remain in the presidential race. He replied that "the question of the president's future politically was not discussed."

Nixon went on to say that "our primary interest at this time" is to help bring about Eisenhower's complete recovery.

Nixon was asked then whether he got the impression that Eisenhower is "a man ready to run again."

Declines Comment

Nixon replied that the President himself is the man to answer that question.

Eisenhower, he said, is familiar with the burdens of the presidency, and "He is the man who should speak" eventually.

Nixon reported that Eisenhower "looked thinner" to him, and noted the earlier announcement that the President weighs seven pounds less than when he entered the hospital.

Hagerty said the doctors told him the loss in weight is considered normal in the wake of an operation such as the President had.

After the conference with Nixon and Dulles, the President spent 25 minutes handling a variety of government business with his chief aide, Sherman Adams, and other White House staffers.

Ike Takes Action

During that period the President:

1. Signed 10 bills passed by Congress and vetoed 1.

2. Signed a series of nominations for government jobs to be sent to the Senate.

3. Approved a request to Congress for supplemental appropriations totaling $2,808,396 to meet damage claims against the government and contingent expenses of the House of Representatives.

4. Accepted the resignation of Walter W. McAllister as chairman and member of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, effective July 1 McAllister notified the President he is leaving government service "because of various pressing personal obligations."

5. Signed two atomic energy documents, one dealing with an agreement between the United States and Australia regarding civilian uses of atomic energy, the other amending an agreement between the United States and Canada. Details were not made public.

6. Signed a technical memorandum for the State Department authorizing issuance of commissions to foreign service officers.

In reporting the decline in Eisenhower's weight, press secretary James C. Hagerty said the doctors told him that "the loss of weight is considered normal' in the wake of such an operation.

Pastor and Wife Are Honored on 25th Anniversary

Rev. and Mrs. M. E. Hollensen, pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church and his wife, Sunday celebrated their silver wedding anniversary. The day also marked the 25th anniversary of Rev. Hollensen's ordination into the ministry.

In observance of the double celebration, the church congregation planned special activities for the day.

A special commemoration was held at the morning worship service and the sermon was by the pastor's brother, Rev. C. M. Hollensen of St. John's Lutheran Church at Richmond, Ind.

Both the junior and senior choirs sang under the direction of Miss Wanda McMahan and Homer Huffman, with Mrs. William Ackerman presiding at the organ.

At noon, Rev. and Mrs. Hollensen entertained guests at a dinner at Hotel Harding, arranged by the congregation.

A reception for members of the congregation and friends in the afternoon in the church parlors was attended by about 350 persons. Decorations were carried out in silver and white. The Hollensens received before the fireplace in the parlors.

Politics

and a crushing loss in the equally important California primary.

He said also he would take no part in any "behind the scene" maneuvering to throw his support to another candidate if he is unable to win the nomination himself.

Republicans wondering if Eisenhower will reconsider his earlier decision to run again after recovering from his Sept. 24 heart attack got no help Sunday from James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary.

Hagerty, in another television appearance, said the President "has given me no indication" of his present intentions as a result of the intestinal surgery he underwant 10 days ago.

Hagerty said also, "I don't think the American people will elect a sick man at all—but I don't think the President is sick."

Hagerty said Eisenhower is completely recovered from his heart attack, and the recent surgery could be compared to operations performed on Stevenson, Gov. Averell Harriman of New New York, Sen. Symington of Missouri and other Democratic presidential possibilities.

Search Ended For Missing Cleveland Boy

Body of Youth Found In Lake Erie Waters, 500 Feet From Shore

CLEVELAND (AP)—The coroner's office said today the body of 8-year-old John Dale Mower, recovered Sunday from Lake Erie, showed no injuries other than the effects of drowning. Laboratory tests extending over several days are planned.

The boy had been missing since last Wednesday when he left home from a playground.

And then Sunday afternoon a long search came to an end.

A small body was spotted in the waters of Lake Erie about 500 feet off the Lake Shore Country Club.

Members of the Coast Guard were summoned by the boaters who made the discovery.

A short while later, at the Coast Guard station in Cleveland Harbor, the boy's stepfather, Ted Haake, 26, knew in a glance the body was that of Johnny. He recognized the black shoes, with zippers, which the boy had been wearing when he started for Sowinski playground on the east side. The lad's blue jeans were on the body, but a knit shirt was missing.

When Mrs. Haake finally was permitted to see the body, she still insisted it was not that of her son.

"That's not my baby," she sobbed. I refuse to believe it."

The boy's mother, Mrs. Virginia Haake, 32, sobbed, "I can't believe he's dead." She was not permitted to see the body until it was taken to the county morgue. Later, the boy's father, John D. Mower, 33, confirmed the identification at the morgue.

The body bore no marks of violence, said homicide chief David E. Kerr.

Dr. Samuel R. Gerber, Cuyahoga County corner, planned a full examination to determine whether drowning was the cause of the boy's death.

Police said the boy could have fallen into Doan Creek, near his home, which later was flooded by heavy rains. The creek empties into the lake.

3 Area Hospitals Given Ford Grants

Grants from the Ford Foundation totalling more than $42,000 have been mailed to three hospitals in the Marion area. The money mailed this week represents the initial payment of one-half the total grant from the foundation.

The grants were determined by the number of patient days of service and the numer of births in each hospital. They ranged from a minimum of $10,000 to a maximum of $250,000.

The Galion Community Hospital received a payment of $14,250 as its first-half share. The Hardin Memorial Hospital in Kenton was awarded $12,200 his week, while the San Antonio Hospital in Kenton received $15,600 as its first-half payment.

Driving Charge Filed

David E. Zentler, 40, of Mount Gilead was arrested on Delaware Ave. Sunday by Marion police on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was slated to appear in Municipal Court later for a hearing on the charge.

Rain

Wauneta forced an evacuation of more than 30 families from flooded homes. Damage estimates ranged around a quarter of a million dollars.

Hail in the Southern Plains area damaged cotton crops. Lubbock, Tex., reported 3 inches of rain early today and heavy rains also fell in Houston and Beaumont, Tex.

Lightning knocked out power in Amarillo, Tex., and several roads in the area were flooded.

A cooling trend spread slowly from the Northern Plains eastward across most of the Great Lakes and North Atlantic states. Collarwilting heat remained in the central and Southern Plains eastward to the mid-Atlantic states.

New England was the only area west of the Rocky Mountains to escape some rainfall activity.

Sheriff and Local Physician Named In Suit for $50,000

Marion County Sheriff Glenn Obenour and Dr. I. E. Michael, of the Smith Clinic, 1040 Delaware Ave., are co-defendants in a $50,000 damage suit filed in Common Pleas Court today by Kelsey P. Bartlett of Toledo. Bartlett's petition asks redress for "libel, slander, malpractice and false imprisonment."

The petition alleges the plaintiff was arrested on April 14, 1954, and he was committed to the Columbus State Hospital two days later by Sheriff Obenour by virtue of an affidavit of mental incompetence allegedly signed by Dr. Michael.

Bartlett, in his petition, alleges that he was falsely imprisoned because of a failure of due process of law and alleges that Dr. Michael signed the affidavit attesting to mental illness without proper examination and on the strength of the allegations of others.

Bartlett, who is acting as his own attorney, wants $50,000 as restitution for alleged irreparable damage to his body, mind, reputation and future life and well being.

Tally Ho Club Holds Reunion

Eight Attend Yearly Gathering of Group

The Tally Ho Club, a young men's social organization active here at the turn of the century, held its 21st annual reunion Saturday afternoon and evening at the Eaglewood Club.

Eight members of the club, which originally had a membership averaging 45, were present.

The time was spent reminiscing and a brief business session was held in the evening following a 6:30 dinner served by Mrs. Marguerite Ramroth.

Officers were re-elected for another year. They include Harry S. Elliott, president; Charles Sechrist, vice president; Fred B. Scherff, secretary.

Three deaths reported in the last year included George E. McCormick of Escandido, Calif., Samuel Bader of Elyria and Williams Terpany of Davenport, Iowa.

Those present for the reunion were Jay Vaughan, Claybourne Hudson, Monta C. Walters, Carl Bausinger, Mr. Elliott and Mr. Scherff, all of Marion, Fred B. Jessop of Swarthmore, Pa., and Ray Robosson of Detroit, Mich.

Unable to attend because of illness or business were Earl I. Beicher of Marion, Charles Sechrist of Prospect, Charles Rice of Union City, Ind., and Carl W. Batty of Flushing, N.Y.

The club, when active, occupied rooms in the old Grand Opera House building on S. State St., which is the present site of the Elks Lodge building.

Michigan State Student Beats Son, 7, to Death

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Police said a Japanese-Hawaiian student at Michigan State University beat his 7-year-old son to death in their campus barracks apartment last night because the child "put up a fuss" about going to sleep.

State Police Sgt. Steve Naert quoted Kinney Tamaribuchi, 27, as saying he "lost his head" when Tamaribuchi said he beat the child with a wooden mallet and a tennis racket and then pummeled him with his fists. Mrs. Tamaribuchi was visiting friends in Chicago.

Political Accent

By George Sokolsky

I have never met Murray M. Chotiner, a California lawyer and politician, who has served Earl Warren, William Knowland and Richard Nixon as campaign manager. He was also Tom Dewey's manager in Southern California when Dewey hoped to be nominated for the Presidency.

SOKOLSKY

In a word Mr Chotiner is a professional. Had Chotiner devoted himself entirely to the law and avoided politics, he might have turned himself into a glamorous personality in Beverly Hills, where he has his offices.

-:-

HE COULD THEN have handled the marriage and divorce business of his clients and got himself mentioned often as associated with well-advertised women who specialize in matters matrimonial.

Instead Chotiner went in for political management which meant that he was constantly making his own enemies and taking on the enemies of his proteges.

He is now involved in a quarrel with some Democrats who are trying to establish the position that Chotiner has been a lawyer for crooks and that therefore Nixon should not be a candidate for vice president.

Obviously if a man is a lawyer and is in politics and has clients, most of his clients will be men in trouble. That is the business of a lawyer, to look after men in trouble.

-:-

IF CONGRESS EVER reached the state of self-examination and self-criticism, it might see whether the law firms to which members of Congress belong, have no clients who are in trouble of one sort or another. And some of these troubles must be with the government with which many citizens have problems.

Had Chotiner not been Nixon's campaign manager, nobody would have been surprised that among his clients were some who are in trouble.

And what is more, nobody would have been surprised that he received a fee of $5,000. Lawyers charge lustily for their services, in or out of court, and a $5,000 fee is not a very big fee as anyone who gets into trouble knows.

Lawyers do not have fixed rates but charge what the traffic will bear, which is their right if they can get the customers to pay.

AS I SAY, I have not met Murray M. Chotiner but I have read a statement which he issued to the press and in which he says:

"If they (the committee's counsel) are not playing politics and are sincere in their desire to determine whether lawyers have been using 'influence' in the handling of cases before Federal agencies, let them call all lawyers in the United States who have been prominent in political activities, and all lawyers in government, irrespective of party affiliation, who are still associated with law firms handling clients in connection with Federal agencies, and ask them the identical questions that have been propounded to me."

This strikes me as a very wholesome proposition although probably impractical because of the large number involved and surely murderous because it might lead to too many suicides. If the rumors one hears about such subjects even approximate the truth, there would have to be some suicides.

SINCE ADMINISTRATIVE law has become prevalent, many important matters are handled not in court, before judge and jury, but in the privacy of a bureau conference, or perhaps over a luncheon or dinner table.

Administrative law is still a new field and its procedures have not yet jelled and therefore are subject to private judgment as to what is right and what is wrong. Administrative law can, in time, replace the procedures developed under English common law which, for three centuries, governed us.

There are many lawyers in Washington who are specialists in administrative law and who know how to appear advantageously to their clients before particular bureaus of government.

-:-

THESE SPECIALISTS do very well as a rule because, to use a local colloquialism, they know their way around. Apparently, Murray Chotiner, as a Republican, knows his way around in this Administration and therefore those who required such a lawyer, sought him out, in disregard of distance.

Sen. Joe McCarthy was once chairman of the committee which is now investigating Chotiner as a lawyer and a politician. McCarthy was rapped over the knuckles on the ground that he employed unusual and unwarranted methods.

Chotiner, in his statement, takes the position that Sen. McCarthy's successors are very bad boys. But he does not blame the senators, only their counsel. They are the successors to Roy Cohn.

Eyes on Texas

By Victor Riesel

Harry Truman, tourist, is heading home for his last political roundup. When he is finished corraling delegates for Stuart Symington at the nominating convention next August, the ex-president plans to ease up his party activity and pass his power on to a younger man.

Victor Riesel

From then on out the Democrats will hitch their wagon to a Lone Star, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, who once wanted to be president himself but now will be content to be the power behind the White House, when and if, the Democrats move in.

This means that the nation's labor leaders will have even greater power in the Democratic Party than they have today with their city by city clubhouse coalitions in the factory laden north.

-:-

THE NATIONAL LABOR chiefs, especially those militant ones out of the old CIO, have quite a hold on Lyndon Johnson and the Texas Democratic Party — strange as it may seem to observers in New York or Chicago.

What these observers just don't realize is that Texas has half a million union members in some of the most politically sophisticated unions.

It is not generally known up north that these unions rustled up enough money and manpower to help Sen. Lyndon Johnson take the Democratic Party away from such conservatives as Gov. Allan Shivers. And that Texas' labor politicos now have an operating base which soon will give them as much influence in the southwest and then in the south as the unions have in some northern states.

This may not awaken any great enthusiasm in Mr. Johnson, leader of the Senate's Democrats, but the labor people in Texas are his political partners. And when the Texas delegation gets up to the nominating convention, they'll have some real power over the votes cast for a presidential candidate by the delegation.

-:-

FOR EVIDENCE OF this just look at the delegation of 11 which will go to the convention from the county which covers Houston. Five of the 11 are labor men or union attorneys.

My scouts in Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin and San Antonio say the pattern was repeated there. Only metropolis I haven't heard from is Riesel, Texas.

That seems to me to be one of the big political developments of the moment. It is the beginning of a pincer move to link the Democratic labor coalitions of the north with those bourgeoning in the south. It has escaped national attention — but sooner or later it will be as controversial as FDR's famed "Clear it with Sidney."

-:-

JOHNSON'S NEW political partners cut in on him the hard way. The labor strategists simply decided to do in Texas what they have done in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Oregon, California and other such states.

Money and manpower came from Walter Reuther's Auto Union, Al Hayes' Machinists, the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, the Communications Workers, the Steel Union and Mike Quill's Transport Workers Union.

With this well oiled juggernaut ready for action, the unions' high command moved into the fight for control of the Democratic Party state convention.

Whoever controls the state convention, controls the state party. Up to that fight, the Lone Star Democratic Party was split between the conservatives behind Gov. Shivers, who had bolted to Eisenhower in '52, and the regular Democratic organization.

-:-

AFTER THE STATE convention, the party was in the hands of the anti-Shivers bloc much of which is controlled by the unions.

In some of the larger cities, around which cluster big auto and aircraft plants, union chiefs had spent over a year and a half organizing for this fight in every precinct.

In Houston, for example, there was a list of 1,000 delegates to the state convention from Harris County. The majority were either union leaders or union members. There labor's political machine worked out of the Electrical Union Building.

Harris County has the largest voting strength in the state and carried the most weight at the state convention in Dallas. It was carried by labor and its allies. The unionists took 150 of these precincts and Shivers' people took 100.

-:-

THE JOHNSON organization claimed no precinct victories there in Houston. However, the labor votes were cast for Sen. Johnson's team, although he deliberately refrained from visiting labor's political headquarters when he got to Houston. Gov. Shivers himself conceded that, "In key cities the effective organized forces of union labor carried the day (for Johnson)."

But this powerful Democratic leader, now controlling the Senate and soon to control the party, will have to listen to his labor partners in and out of Texas when he and his colleagues nominate a candidate for the presidency.

Keep your eyes on Texas. A new political era is dawning there.

Each Day a Gift

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK "Each day now," said Kate Smith, "is like a gift greater than gold."

HAL BOYLE

After 25 fabulous years in radio and television, the "Hello Everybody" girl is going to take it easy from now on.

"I plan only limited guest appearances — maybe six or eight a year," said Kate. "I've reached a stage of life where it is time to start slowing down."

SHE REACHED the decision after her longtime manager and partner, Ted Collins, was stricken with a heart attack early this year.

"I saw him lying under an oxygen tent, week after week, trying to breathe," she recalled. "we had worked so long and so hard. And I asked myself—'For what?' What is the point in killing yourself?"

"If I didn't want to work another day, I wouldn't have to. I haven't had a check bounce yet. I don't have to work now except for sheer pleasure."

"Yes," said Collins drily, as he forked up a bit of shrimp luncheon salad. "You got money to go home on."

Kate, who started as a teen-age singer whose plumpness often made her the butt of Broadway musical comedy jokes, proved that most of the country can be made to love a fat girl with a stout heart.

Since her first broadcast in May 1931 she has starred on 10,342 radio shows, made 1,040 television appearances and recorded more than 2,200 songs. She has received as much as $38,000 a week, and her gross lifetime earnings exceed 35 million dollars.

"I can't think of any entertainer in history, man or woman, who has beaten that record, unless it's Bing Crosby," said Collins.

—:—

KATE IS PROUD of the fact that over the years she has received some 25 million fan letters. She is proud that in a number of public polls she has been named among the 10 most important and best-loved women of her time. But she is proudest of all of the day when President Franklin D. Roosevelt, presenting her to King George and Queen Elizabeth of England, said:

"This is Kate Smith; this is America."

Kate—born Kathryn Elizabeth Smith, May 1, 1909, in Greenville, Va., according to her biography—retains a sort of childlike wonder at her success in life, and enjoys it thoroughly.

"Most of the time I'm happy," she said. "I learned early that it's largely up to the individual whether he goes through life moody and sad or makes the best of it."

She has always been a woman of many enthusiasms. She collects antiques, likes golf, and says she can still swim a mile easily. She has always been athletic.

"I have only two secrets," she remarked. "My golf score—and my weight."

Toll of Deaths For Weekend Hits at Least 34

Total in State Rises To Second Highest of Year; Eight Drowned

By The Associated Press

Ohio's weekend death toll was the second highest this year. At least 34 persons were killed in various accidents, 17 in traffic.

The Associated Press survey of accidental deaths covers the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

The highest number of fatalities this year came in a similar 54-hour period, May 18-20, when 37 persons died, 33 in traffic.

7 Persons Drown

This weekend's mishaps included eight drownings, a plane crash which killed three and a fire in which a father and his two daughters suffocated.

Two drownings involved a heroic but fatal rescue attempt by a West Andover man who tried to save a seven-year-old boy trapped in a flooded drain pipe.

Harold W. Musselman, 73, of Nevada (Wyandot County), was the victim of a freak accident Sunday. A dead tree fell on him as he fished from the bank of Beaver Creek near East Liverpool.

The list of fatalities:

Friday night:

Steve Shullick, 32, Lorain, drowned when he fell off a cabin cruiser into the Black River.

Daniel Tyus, 35, Cleveland, hit by a freight train in Cleveland as he walked along the tracks.

Saturday Deaths

Saturday:

Richard J. Pierce, 23, Sharpsburg, when the car in which he was riding skidded on a gravel road and hit a guard rail south of Chesterhill (Athens County).

Calvin C. Walters, 45, Fremont, hit by a car on U.S. 20, one mile west of Ohio 300, near Fremont.

Ensil E. Miller, 31, Crestline, when his auto left U.S. 30 north, near Bucyrus.

Richard E. Fox, 31, Louisville, Ky., when his truck missed a curve, roared through a used car lot in Lebanon and dropped off a 50-foot cliff at the end of the lot.

Vaughn Rose, 16, Crystal Lakes and Columbus, when the car in which he was riding sideswiped a bridge and overturned off Lower Valley Pike near Springfield.

Miss Sarah Sampson, 21, Mount Sterling, in a headon collision on U.S. 40, six miles west of Zanesville.

Ronald E. Salo, 7, and George Steimle, 38, both of West Andover, drowned in a flooded drain pipe along U.S. 6. Salo was swept into the pipe after a heavy rainstorm and Steimle crawled into the pipe in an effort to rescue him.

Donald Janes, 21, Port Clinton, when his car crashed into a tree off Lakewood Road, two miles northeast of that city.

Earl Richardson, 51, Camp Washington, drowned in the Little Miami River at Milford (Hamilton County) after going for a swim.

Earl Murray, 57, Springfield, when his car overturned on U.S. 30 south, 11 miles west of Lima.

Henry Harrison Dingess, 28, Rt. 1, Wheelersburg, when his car left Ohio 104, five miles northeast of Portsmouth.

Franklin Wallace, 21, Peebles, accidentally shot himself through the head while hunting rabbits near his Adams County home.

Robert L. Burns, 23, Youngstown, when his car left Ohio 7 a mile south of North Lima (Mahoning County) and crashed into an advertising sign.

John Gorbzn 76, Jacobsburg, when the truck in which he was traveling overturned on Ohio 7, one-half mile south of Powhatan Point (Belmont County).

William A. Mewha, 52, Wellsburg, W. Va., his wife, Gwendolyn, and their son, Michael, 13, in a small private plane crash at Elmore (Ottawa County) as the craft attempted an emergency landing at Haar Airport, its cockpit afire.

Nixon Presides Over Physical Fitness Parley

Fills In for President At 2-Day National Conference on Youth

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—The President's conference on Fitness of American Youth was told today the nation may be approaching a "golden age of fitness" in which each individual will take pride in his own physical, mental and spiritual growth.

With Vice President Nixon presiding in the place of the convalescing President Eisenhower, who called the conference, the two-day workshop opened today at the Naval Academy. About 150 were on hand.

Marion B. Folsom, secretary of health, education and welfare, sounded the keynote with his vision of a golden age of fitness.

One of the chief aims of the conference is to explore how the federal government can assist organizations already engaged in physical fitness work for youths.

Among the sports personalities participating are baseball commissioner Ford Frick; former heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney; Rogers Hornsby, former baseball great and director of youth activities in the Chicago Park District; Kenneth L. Wilson, president of the U. S. Olympic Committee; Carl H. Hansen, president of the Amateur Athletic Union; Clarence L. Munn, Michigan State athletic director; and Yale basketball coach Howard Hobson.

The fields of education, medicine, motion pictures, recreation, agriculture, service and youth organizations also are represented.

Andover Youth Is Road-E-O Victor

CLEVELAND (AP)—Driving skill demonstrated in Ohio's teenage road-e-o in Euclid Saturday won $1,000 scholarships for Sidney Van Court of Andover and Wanda Heck of East Palestine.

Van Court, who will represent Ohio in the national road-e-o in Washington Aug. 6-9, scored 538 out of a possible 565 and was perfect in the road test. Wanda topped the girls with 413 points.

The tests, sponsored by the Ohio Trucking Assn., Standard Oil Co. of Ohio and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, were given to 140 youngsters, all survivors of local preliminary competition. One test required drivers to keep the left wheels of their cars between rows of tennis balls 11½ inches apart and extending about 100 yards.

Bomb Scare Is Toy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A menacing buzz-buzz in the baggage room at the union railroad station set off a bomb scare Sunday.

Alarmed baggage attendants summoned special agent Gene Mallaly. He called for a police department demolition expert.

The expert carefully opened a package from which came the noise. He found a battery-operated child's toy telegraph set, with the key jammed into a buzz-buzz position by another article.

10-Year Reunion Held by '46 Class of Harding High School

A ten-year reunion for the Harding High School graduating class of 1946 was held Saturday night in the UAW-CIO hall at the corner of Leader and Joseph Sts.

Dinner and a program was followed by an evening of dancing. Eighty - eight graduates, their wives husbands and friends attended.

Ralph Weber, the class president, presided as master of ceremonies and the invocation was spoken by Rev. Laurence Feaver of Celina, O. A member of the class, he now is an ordained minister and serves two churches near Celina.

Honored Guests

A welcome was extended by Mr. Weber and he introduced the honored guests, Homer Huffman, music instructor at Harding, to whom the school year book was dedicated in 1946, and A. C. May, principal of Harding from 1944 through 1949 and now associated with the Steubenville school system. Both Mrs. Huffman and Mrs. May were present.

Mr. Huffman gave a short talk, congratulating the class and discussing the endeavors of school teachers and the many rewards derived from these endeavors. Mr. May spoke briefly of his experiences with the class. He discussed the importance of discipline in the home and the importance of parent participation in community projects and PTA activities.

The program theme was "State Fair 1956." William Wiedemann read the class prophecy and each graduate gave a short summary of the last ten years.

"Blue Ribbon Awards" were presented by Ray Ballinger, class treasurer. They went to Diane Cheney MacDonald of Omaha, Neb., the graduate coming the greatest distance; Ruth Wright Rengert of Marion, the graduate married the longest; Joan Hoffman Chivington of Marion, the graduate with the most children; Frank Martin of Cleveland, the class member most recently married; James Carwile of Columbus, the member with the youngest child.

Group singing of the class song was led by Joyce Bohyer Hildebrand of Edgewood, Md., who had written the words and music for the song. Music for dancing was by Mack Finch and his orchestra of Kenton.

Plans were made for another reunion to be held in five years. A memorium was given during the evening in honor of the deceased members of the class, Duane Eastman and Robert Taylor.

Cleveland Area Is Hit By Water Main Breaks

CLEVELAND (AP) — There were three breaks in water mains Sunday in Mentor and Willoughby Twps., one of which cut off the water supply of about 2,000 families in the lakefront sections for 10 hours.

The other two breaks affected fewer families and were fixed sooner.

Water company officials said it was possible that quicksand underlying that area may have shifted enough to displace the mains and crack them.

Business Worth $20 Million Annually

Health Money-Making Proposition in Colorado

DENVER (NANA) — Health is a $20,000,000-a-year business in Colorado.

Each year the healthful climate, modern medical facilities, and mineral springs attract thousands to the state from all over the country and from many foreign lands.

These include victims of tuberculosis, asthma, arthritis, and other maladies. An uncounted number of persons whose health is good come to Colorado because they believe their chances of remaining healthy are better here than elsewhere.

It is difficult to translate the economic importance of health to Colorado into dollars - and - cents terms. But, according to authorities in this area, health brings approximately $20,000,000 a year in business to the state, chiefly from out-of-state sources.

—:—

IN 1955 THERE were 1,022 tuberculosis beds which the state classifies as "acceptable" in nine non-federal institutions. The largest is National Jewish Hospital at Denver, a free, non-sectarian institution, with 277 beds.

The average cost of tuberculosis care for each patient each day is estimated at $15.

Assuming a bed occupancy of 90 per cent, the income reaped by Coloradoans from the institutional treatment of tuberculosis alone exceeds $11,500,000. To this must be added the expenditures of patients for personal necessities and other nonmedical needs, and the sums spent for the treatment of other diseases.

The National Jewish Hospital at Denver in the last four years has erected a new clinical and surgical building, one for ambulatory patients, and an administration building.

—:—

THE CAPACITY OF the pediatric building has been doubled and the research laboratories greatly enlarged. A new rehabilitation center is under construction. Before the end of this year, $3,400,000 will have been spent for construction and equipment, most of it in the community. The hospital's annual budget is $2,250,000.

Tuberculosis has led many of the state's most prominent citizens to Colorado.

Governor Edwin C. Johnson says he came to Colorado on a stretcher with a virulent tuberculosis infection. Not only did he recover, but he became one of the huskiest, hardest-working men in the Rockies.

A leading Denver realtor, now 78, recalls how he traveled here as a tuberculosis sufferer before the turn of the century in a covered wagon. The wagon had to be stopped frequently and the patient placed gently on the ground to ease his anguish. He is now in excellent health.

—:—

A LOCAL COLUMNIST recently suggested that the statue of a miner with a pick and shovel shovel should be removed from the ground of the state capitol and replaced with one of the tubercle bacillus. He maintained that the bacillus had contributed more to the state's development than mining had.

Although of far lesser importance than formerly, mineral waters continue to attract large numbers to Colorado. The most important spa is Glenwood Springs, 169 miles west of Denver. So-called "vapor caves" there do a thriving business.

The latest variation of the mineral springs idea is a spa whose waters contain uranium, according to its owner. He further claims that these baths are beneficial to victims of various diseases about which a number of medical authorities have doubts.

In Aspen, the ski resort, ground was broken last fall for a haven with the purpose of reconditioning well-to-do executives — at $350 a week. The tired rather than the sick are expected to form the clientele.

The Tokyo metropolitan area has 6,300,000 people.

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

New Policy for Old Series

Armstrong Circle Theater is one of the veteran drama shows on the air and, to speak frankly, it has not always been one of the better ones. Years ago, as I recall, a typical Circle story sounded as if it had been written for one of those sugar-sweet women's magazines. It was fiction, all right; in fact, it sounded unmistakably as if someone had made it all up.

JOHN CROSBY

This policy was not conspicuously successful. Television has a sort of built - in integrity, a ruthless honesty of its own, which shows up formula - writing for what it is.

Last fall, though, Circle switched to a new policy of dramatizing real stories "behind the news," as the saying goes. This has not only raised the artistic level of the dramas but also, I think, given them more popular appeal. Truth, as William Randolph Hearst used to say, is not only stranger than fiction but a lot more interesting.

-:-

A CASE IN POINT was Circle's production last Tuesday of "H. R. 3438 — The Story of a Lost Boy." It's a truly remarkable story and, according to the Circle people, absolutely true.

Elizabeth Steigerwald, born in America but raised in Yugoslavia, had been repatriated to America, after a spell in a Siberian prison camp. She had been separated from her son and daughter for something like 13 years and was trying desperately to locate them through the International Institute.

A search through the orphanages of Yugoslavia uncovered her daughter Maria and a boy, Anton Steigerwald, whom she claimed as her son Johann. Well, it wasn't Johann and, after being brought to this country, the fact that he's an imposter slowly filters through to the boy. However, for the first time, he had parents and a home and plenty to eat and naturally he was reluctant to part from these blessings.

FOR A YEAR he stalled from telling his "mother" that she wasn't, though his "sister" had long since found it out. But finally, the word leaked out that puts the lad in an interesting dilemma.

Under the provisions of the McCarran Act, he should be deported to Yugoslavia since he isn't an American. That's where H.R. 3438 comes in. It is a bill submitted by Rep. Samuel J. McConnell Jr. (R-Pa) which would permit the boy to stay in the country.

At the end of the play, the real Anton Steigerwald appeared briefly to tell us how much he likes America and how he hoped he could stay. I hope so, too.

As a piece of special pleading, it was enormously effective, and I shouldn't be at all surprised if Rep. McConnell got quite a few wires to support his bill. Incidentally, the real Johann Steigerwald has since been located and is now with his mother. The whole story, in short, is so incredible that it has to be true. You don't care make up things like that. dare make up things like that.

I FIND THIS TREND toward actuality a healthy thing, provided enough of the actuality stays in the story to make it worthwhile. A good many of the dramatic stories which are supposed to be based on somebody's files — the FBI's, the Navy's, police departments' — wander so far from the files that the writers might just as well have stayed in their offices.

The script was something less than great writing but it was adequate. Maureen Stapleton, who is seen much too seldom on television, was excellent as the mother.

COLOR REVOLUTION

LONDON (INS) — New British stainproof upholstery is expected to create a color revolution in the home. White upholstery will be fashionable. Some of the first chairs upholstered with silicone-treated fabric are now reaching the shops. Stains can be wiped off this fabric leaving the material untouched.

CAPITOL CAN-CAN. Eight capitol lovelies, all congressional secretaries, go through part of a high-stepping can-can number on the U. S. Capitol steps to publicize their forthcoming show, "Revisin' and Extendin'." They are (left to right) Oar Cade, Singer Hutchinson, Louise Younger, Shirley Ann Cooper, Betty Daniel, Peggy Kilbridge, Mary Whichard and Miriam Allison.

Producer Has Definite Goal In TV Drama

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)— A new and important talent has moved into the front ranks of network television drama in the person of Robert Herridge, the producer of "Studio One Summer Theater" (CBS-TV, Monday evenings, 10 p. m., eastern daylight time).

By new this does not mean that he burst full-grown into the national scene with his excellent adaptation of John Steinbeck's "Flight" last Monday evening. He has been developing for a long time. Quite a few of us have been beating the drums for him as a result of his work on the experimental "Camera Three" over the local CBS outlet. Now it's a pleasure to see talent awarded wider recognition.

-:-

THERE WERE A FEW who thought "Flight" was too "arty." (When cornered for an explanation, it turned out they merely did not see their preconceived notion of what they thought they wanted to see at that particular moment.) They should tune in this Monday evening when "Studio One" presents "Snap Your Fingers" a sophisticated, satirical comedy by Richard DeRoy about a woman who wanted to be loved but couldn't men.

Herridge has change of pace. But that is not why he is important in the field of television drama. He is important, his contribution significant, because of his purposefulness. He says, for example:

"I would like to create a gallery of characters. It seems to me that the most worthwhile thing television drama can do is to concentrate on people — on character development and change. If you can create interesting people you will create an interested audience.

-:-

"NATURALLY A GOOD story is essential too. But my concentration is on character — on penetration of human nature. Your material should tell you how to do it. Because technique is merely a means of revealing character."

Herridge has a great diversity of dramas planned for the 13 weeks when he will produce "Studio One Summer Theatre" and the 10 ensuing weeks when he will produce regular "Studio One" shows.

Amvets Pick Officers

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Amvets Sunday elected a new state commander. He is Edgar Williams of Hamilton.

Others elected at the Amvets' 11th annual convention here included vice commanders Rolland Crank, Sandusky, and Herbert Pofahl, Cuyahoga Falls; and finance officer William Cummings of Massillon.

The convention adopted a resolution calling for further study of the proposed veterans' benefit bill now before Congress.

About 500 Amvets from 73 Ohio posts attended the two-day meeting.

Legitimate medical needs use only 500 of the 2,000 tons of opium produced annually in the world.

Flying Criminologists

Australia's Air Police Cover Worldwide Beat

SYDNEY (NANA) — Australia's air detectives have a beat that covers two-thirds of the globe.

The flying criminologists spend weeks in such places as Istanbul, Mauritius, Singapore, or Karachi, investigating missing diamonds, watches, smuggled gold, or drug traffic by airline employes or travelers.

The air detectives work for Australia's national airline, Qantas; British Overseas Airways, Royal Dutch Airlines and Tasman Empire Airways.

At the head of the bureau is a former Sydney detective, Gordon Fraser.

The air detectives have established liaisons with Scotland Yard, the FBI, the French Surete and Interpol, the international police organization.

-:-

THE FIRST BIG CASE the air detectives had to tackle was in 1951. Mail bags consigned from Europe were found on arrival at Sydney airport to have been rifled. By a process of lightning unloading checks, the trouble was pinpointed to Cairo airport.

Within two days six airport workers were taken into custody, and later were convicted.

On another occasion cases of Swiss watches consigned from Berne to Sydney arrived at Singapore full of sand and gravel. The watches were missing.

Soil experts analyzed the sand and gravel. They found it contained betel-nut spittle and fish bones of a type found only in the eastern Mediterranean.

This led to the arrest of the men who had switched the watches at the Middle East airport where the plane had called.

-:-

FLASHLIGHT batteries in another case were substituted for watches. The manufacturers of the batteries were located in Sydney. They told the air detectives that serial numbers on the side of the batteries indicated that they were of the type made under license in Indonesia.

The air detectives inquired in Djakarta and found the batteries had been sold to a local wholesaler. Similar batteries were located in the local customs bond warehouse. Through the employes, the culprits were identified.

Suggling by air crew members is widespread in certain parts of the world. The outstanding case investigated by the Australian air detectives concerned four poker machines discovered in the tail of a DC-6 at Sydney airport.

Ground staff at an American airport were alleged to have unscrewed plates at the rear of the plane to conceal the machines. The ground staff at Sydney assisted in the unloading by removing the plates and then replacing them.

-:-

DRUG SMUGGLING by air is the most profitable of all illicit traffic.

There is little evidence however, the operations of international rings have extended to Australia.

Interpol grants the Australian air detectives the facilities and resources of its headquarters staff in Paris.

The air detectives hold annual conferences with other airline security organizations for free exchange of experience and confidential information.

Outside the Iron Curtain countries this year, international and Australian airlines will carry 75,000,000 passengers, 5,000,000 more than last year, and forecasts are that 100,000 passengers will travel to and from Australia by air for the Olympic games.

The crime busters of the air aim to protect these visitors and also the expanding airline business, which is now worth $150,000,000 in this country.

Thieves Get $7,000

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP)— Thieves who used water from buckets to cool their electric drills and worked under the light of a boy scout flashlight Sunday night escaped with $7,000 from a department store safe.

Asst. Police Chief Stewart Lambert said the thieves also used small throw rugs to muffle the noise of the drills. A nightwatchman who discovered the theft at the S. W. Anderson store said he heard no sounds.

'Not a Comeback, I Never Quit,' Says Tribe Ace Vic Wertz

Cleveland's Slugger Sees 5-Team Chase

By JOHN SHORT
Marion Star Sports Editor

Baseball's comeback man of the year, Vic Wertz of the Cleveland Indians, has just one regret. Ten of the 15 home runs he has slugged have been hit on the road.

"Maybe if a few more of them had been hit here, it would have helped take the pressure off Al Rosen, Smitty and the rest of the guys," he said Sunday just before going onto the field for the pre-game warmup activities prior to the Indian-Yankee contest.

Seated in the runway just behind the Cleveland dugout, Wertz spoke freely of the polio attack that hospitalized him last August. At that time, the Indian slugger was supposedly washed up. However, he vowed to come back and at the present time is the team's home run and runs-batted-in leader.

—:—

"I WASN'T TOO worried at any time. I wanted to play again last September but they wouldn't allow it," he said. "It was the toughest spring training I have ever had but Al (Lopez) told me to take my time and to set my own pace. 'Let me know when you're ready,' he told me. The boys on the team helped a lot too. I ran a lot and got my legs in condition before trying too much hitting," Wertz continued.

"I didn't baby myself," Vic said.

After last season, he returned to Detroit where he is a partner in a distributing business. Working from 12 to 16 hours daily, he found little time to pamper himself. After the office rush slowed down following Christmas, he worked out daily on a Detroit handball court.

"I feel fine and have since the start of the season. I'm confident I can make the whole season," the Indians' new hero says. He is currently hampered very slightly by a pulled muscle and most of the Indians stopped by to inquire about it as they trooped through on the way to the field.

"It has nothing to do with 'that other thing'," he said "My strength is back and when the muscle heals I'll be as well as I ever was."

—:—

DESPITE THE Cleveland slump during the past week, Wertz is confident the Indians will be in the thick of the pennant fight yet.

"Last year we were seven games behind much later than this and came back to close the gap," he pointed out.

Although the Indian hitters and pitchers can't seem to have their days at the same time, Wertz is sure the team will find itself.

"We're going to get together and this thing will be a real close five-team race. The Yankees will take their lumps before the season is over."

The home run pace being set by Mickey Mantle is holding the Indians' attention. Rosen, Gene Woodling and Wertz are pulling for the Yankee slugger to top the Babe Ruth total "But not against us," Wertz added.

Switching back to his illness, Wertz insisted he has made no comeback "To make a comeback you have to quit something and I never thought of hanging 'em up. I've been lucky I know but I always believed I'd be able to play," he said.

THE ATTACK occurred last August but he made such a rapid recovery that he was able to attend the final Tribe home game and greet 28,504 fans. As an expression of its gratitude for Vic's recovery, the Cleveland Baseball Club donated $17,000 of that day's gate receipts to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Almost from the start of this season, Wertz has been the loudest gun in the Indian attack. After being held to one hit in his first 12 trips to the plate, he broke loose on a 10-game hitting spree. During one stretch he reached first base on 17 of 21 tries. He has participated in every one of the Indians' game to date.

Manager Al Lopez summed up the feeling of the team management, the players and the fans by saying:

"I can't begin to say how glad I am that Vic made it all the way back. And as far as our attack is concerned I'm awfully happy about those 15 home runs. Most of them have been solid smashes with that old Wertz power behind them."

The genial first sacker refuses to set any goals for himself other than to express the hope that he can play in each of the Tribe's 154 games. He hasn't played a complete season since 1949, when he hit 20 home runs, drove in 133 runners and finished with a .304 batting average for Detroit.

Although he may not reach his personal high of 133 runs driven in, a continuation of his present pace would enable him to top his previous high batting average of .306 and his top home runs total of 27.

No one, not even Wertz, expects him to continue at his present pace. But his teammates will tell you Wertz isn't through. And Vic will tell you he can't quit He plans to play first base for the Indians in next October's World Series.

Indians Slump Continues; 9-4 Defeat By Yanks Drops Club Into 4th Place

Bombers Complete Sweep, Indians Battle Bosox Next

CLEVELAND (AP) — The fourth-place Cleveland Indians, after a bitter weekend of Yankee miseries must contend next with the ruinous Boston Red Sox.

It will be up to Bob Lemon to lead off for the Tribe Tuesday night in a three-game set with Boston in a struggle for third place, which the Bostons now hold after downing Detroit Sunday.

Those three games might turn into a nightmare of repetition, if the Cleveland club isn't able to change its course.

The Indians ended their last road trip by getting only one victory and one tie out of five games in Boston. Then they opened their home stand against New York, and the Yankees took three out of three, the last one being a 9-4 verdict Sunday before the largest home crowd of the season, 41,765.

Trail by 8 Games

Among other things, that left Cleveland eight games behind the first place Yanks. The Indians haven't won a game since a week ago today, when Cal McLish won in Boston. The Tribe is only one game ahead of Detroit and Baltimore, which are tied for fifth.

And the prospect against Boston is no dish of tea. For the season the Red Sox have won five, tied one and lost two with Cleveland. They beat Lemon in his last start on Thursday.

It was the long ball that murdered the Cleveland club Sunday.

It began in the first inning, off Early Wynn, who was destined to be the losing pitcher of the contest. He couldn't get anyone out.

First he walked Gil McDougald. The rookie outfielder Norm Siebern parked one in the right field stands for his first major league homer. Slugger Mickey Mantle singled to right, and then Yogi Berra registered another homer, his 17th of the season, also to the right field stands. Don Mossi had to take over the pitching at that point

Young Siebern singled in another run in the fourth, but it was in the seventh that the real trouble came. Mantle walked, went to third on a single by Berra, and scored on a single by Joe Collins At that point McLish relieved Mossi and Hank Bauer promptly smacked a three-run homer into the left field stands, his 14th of the year.

Run Walked In

The Indians got a gift run off starter Whitey Ford in the second inning when he walked Mossi with the bases loaded. Ford shortly thereafter left the premises with a sore back. Off Tom Morgan the Tribe got four hits and two runs in the third inning. The last Cleveland run was in the seventh, when Chico Carrasquel was hit by a pitched ball, went to second on a grounder and scored on a single by Jim Busby.

Stu Locklin, an outfielder, was sent to Indianapolis on option Sunday, bringing the Cleveland roster down to 25. Locklin was released from the Army last June, and because of his military service was carried as an extra man for a year. But Sunday the year was up and Locklin was on his way.

BRAVES CHANGE MANAGERS. Charley Grimm (right) shakes hands with his successor, Fred Haney in New York after Grimm resigned as manager of the Milwaukee Braves. Grimm said he had been offered job of director of personnel procurement of the club, but hadn't decided yet whether to take it. He resigned after Braves dropped a 3-2 decision to the Brooklyn Dodgers for their 12th defeat in past 17 games. Haney has been coaching for the Braves.

Grimm's Last Act

Adcock Cracks 3 Homers, Braves Clip Brooks Twice

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

Charlie Grimm's last official act as manager of Milwaukee was to announce Joe Adcock would play both games at Brooklyn Sunday. It was one of the best moves he ever made — for the new manager, Fred Haney.

Before Grimm knew he was going to resign, he told the players Saturday he was taking Adcock off the bench and starting him at first base as a reward for his pinch homer in Saturday's game. Before the night was over, Grimm was out and Haney was in Adcock hit three home runs for Milwaukee Sunday, one of them the first ever Lit over the left field stands at Ebbets Field, as the Braves swept a doubleheader for Haney 5-4 and 3-1.

Pirates Drop 2

Despite a double defeat by St. Louis, the Pittsburgh Pirates still held the National League lead by a half game. The Cards dumped the Pirates 3-1 on Stan Musial's two-run homer and 8-3 on homers by Hank Sauer and Bob Del Greco.

Either the Cincinnati Redlegs or Brooklyn Dodgers could have sneaked into the lead by winning a pair. The Dodgers dropped two and the Redlegs had to settle for a split with New York. After successive homers by Willie Mays and Bill White gave the Giants the opener 7-6, Joe Nuxhall shut out New York with two singles for a 1-0 verdict.

Robin Roberts ended his personal losing streak by pitching the Phillies to his first victory since May 24 with a seven-hitter 7-1 but the Chicago Cubs bounced back to win the second 7-4 on Sam Jones' six-hitter.

Chicago pounded Washington for 20 hits and a 20-2 romp in the opener and then settled back to absorb a 10-4 beating in the second game. The results left the White Sox 5½ games back of the Yanks.

Tigers Routed 13-2

Frank Sullivan beat Detroit for the 10th straight time with the help of a 19-hit Boston attack in a 13-2 romp. Baltimore's Bob Nieman, a .435 hitting terror when he sees Kansas City pitching, hit a three-run homer with the score tied in the eighth inning as the Orioles whipped the A's 7-2.

The largest Ebbets Field crowd since June 3, 1951, a total of 34,394, saw Adcock crash his homer with the score tied 4-4 in the ninth inning of the first game. Big Joe already had hit a two-run homer and a single in the

Middlecoff Slows Pace, Awaits Tam

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Maturity has made Cary Middlecoff the world's greatest golfer.

But, like his predecessor Ben Hogan, physical condition may keep him from establishing that fact.

When he won his second National Open championship Saturday, posting a 281 total for 72 holes and then sweating it out in the locker room while Hogan, Julius Boros, Ted Kroll and a few others charged at him and dropped back, Middlecoff proved that he is the one golfer to beat in any tournament at this time.

The tall, now-slightly-paunchy retired dentist from Memphis, Tenn., and Dallas, Tex., is 35. He has been rated among the leading golf professionals ever since he won his first Open as a sophomore pro in 1949.

Until the last year or so, temperament and jittery nerves have kept him from establishing his greatness. He was the kind of player who was on top of the world — affable, friendly and humorous — when he was winning and ready to bite your ears off if a few important putts didn't drop

Golf is a $50,000-a-year business for Middlecoff, but at a time when he should be collecting, he has become a parttime player.

"I'm going to play at Philadelphia next week because I promised George Fazio a year ago that I would," he said. "My doctor says I shouldn't play in the PGA Championship (he was runnerup to Doug Ford last year) so I'll rest until Tam O'Shanter in August.

"You know I have tendonitis in my left hip. The doctor says it's something like tennis elbow and if I play too much it might become chronic. My right leg is a little shorter than my left, that's what causes it."

In the Open, Hogan and Boros tied for second with 282. Kroll had a 285 total.

CONGRATULATIONS. Runner-up Ben Hogan (right), four-time winner of the U.S. Open, has grin for equally smiling 1956 winner, Cary Middlecoff, at trophy presentation at Oak Hill Country Club in Rochester, N. Y. Hogan shot a par 70 in final round to wind up one stroke behind Middlecoff's winning 281 total.

Moose Team Tops FOP 14-7

Moose downed FOP 14-7 in a rain - curtailed Colt League program at Lincoln Park Sunday.

Rain interferred with the night-cap between Moulders and Elks and it has been rescheduled for Friday night. Moulders led 6-4 in the top of the fifth when the contest was called.

Yesterday's triumph moved the cellar dwelling Moose squad to within a half-game of third and punctured FOP's title hopes.

The winners tallied in all but one inning and rode to victory behind a 15-hit attack and Larry Ambrose's six-hit hurling.

Three-run clusters in each of the first three frames gave Ambrose the necessary runs. Moose added two more markers in the fourth and three in the sixth FOP was held to a single run in the first, two in the third, three in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Ambrose struck out seven while walking nine and hitting a pair of batsmen. Jim Hough worked for the losers, fanning six, walking four and hitting a batter.

Dick Penry, Mike Chamberlain, Don Conkle and Ambrose all had three hits and Tom Thackery two for the winners. Pearle Aldridge and Robert Bolden both collected a pair of hits for FOP.

Race Crash Claims Life Of Sweikert

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —Bob Sweikert, a fearless champion on the track but "scared to death on the highway," met an auto racer's death Sunday after he crashed on the high-banked Salem Speedway.

Sweikert, the 1955 winner at Indianapolis, brushed the wall with his sprint car while trying to pass Ed Elisian on the fourth lap. The front of his car went partially over a rail, injured two photographers in a stand, then twisted and rolled towards a retaining wall.

Sweikert was pulled from the flaming vehicle when it came to rest about 75 feet from the north end of the asphalt track.

Sweikert, 30, died of skull injuries three minutes after he was admitted to the Washington County Memorial Hospital.

The photographers, Dale Mueller of St. Louis and Ivan Shirley of Scottsburg, Ind., were treated at the hospital for minor head abrasions. Hospital sources said it appeared the photographers "had been hit by pieces of rubber."

While running among the leaders in the 1956 Indianapolis race, Sweikert's car struck a wall and he ended up in the infield with a shreaded tire. Running to the pits on the rim, he was able to get a new wheel and finished sixth in the race.

In addition to his widow, Sweikert is survived by three children, Oynette, 10, Stephen, 7, and Johnene, 2½.

STRIKING POWER

At the recommissioning ceremonies for the USS Bon Homme Richard, her commanding officer had this to say, "It is hard to believe, but true, that our ship with her air groups has a striking power greater than the entire U. S. fleet in 1945."

Pairings were made Sunday by Jack Stoddard, club professional. Thirty-one golfers are entered in the tourney, whose first round is to be completed by June 24. The championship match is scheduled for July 22.

—:—

OPENING ROUND matches follow: Lewis Ashworth vs. Vernon Street; Maurice Cornell vs. Joe Casey; John M. Dugan vs. John Rife; Cliff Boettcher vs. John J. Dugan; Jay Maish Jr. vs. Bill Foster; Bob Stout vs. Sherm Halderman; Bert Freed vs. Stu Norris; Carl Sheehe vs. Wayne Jenkins; Warren Rowley vs. Joe Scandling; Lew Cummins vs. Jack Bray Jr.; Jack Lord vs. Bob Axe; Don Yoder vs. Bob Bagley; Leo Groll vs. R T. Lewis; Bob Cripps vs. J. B. Bray Sr.; Vern Street vs. John Corwin; and John Smith vs. Paul Hunt.

Cripps and the twosome of Harold Grigsby and Jack Bray Jr. were major winners in a pair of tournaments at the Country Club the past week.

Cripps with a 68 won the Class A crown in a medal play tourney Wednesday. Maurice Cornell with 70 trailed him. In Class B, Dr. William Leffler was the victor with a 65. Next came J. B. Bray Sr. with 67, and Dr. Carl Sheehe, Paul Hunt, Marion Cheney, Dr. Dan Brickley and Paul Schwemley, all with 70's. Bob Mason copped the Class C division with a 70, edging Roy Clauer and Joe O'Connor, both with 71 tallies.

GRIGSBY AND BRAY won a best ball, blind partner event Saturday with 58. Only two strokes behind with 60's were the teams of J. B. Bray Sr. and Bill Foster, Maurice Cornell and Sherm Haldeman, and Jack Lord and George Howser. Tied for fifth with 61's were Les Van Dommelen and Dr Richard Morgan and Newt Minard and Russ Reichardt. The twosomes of Jack Kinter and Bob Cripps and Bob Axe and Jack Weis fired 62 scores.

Joe Casey established a new personal low at the club Sunday when he toured the nine holes in a three under par 39. It was the first time he had broken 40 on the local course. Bob Bagley also posted a 39 on his second round.

Despite rain Sunday, the Country Club today reported the weekend turnout there "very good." At the Mar-O-Del, however, manager Ray Augenstein termed the weekend crowd "fair".

Tebbetts Shifts Lineup, Seeks Boost in Hits

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs has started some lineup changes to try shaking the team out of a hitting slump.

He benched third-sacker Ray Jablonski in the second game of Sunday's doubleheader with New York, replacing him with Jim Dyck.

Jabbo's hitting spearheaded the Reds' rise early in the season after a rocky start, but his work at the plate has been progressively less effective recently.

And Wally Post was put on the bench Saturday, his right field job taken by Bob Thurman. He returned to the lineup in Sunday's second game against the Giants, but got only one single.

There was little similarity between the two games, except that they were both won on one-run margins.

The Giants took the opener, 7-6, after a free-hitting contest which had six homers, four by New York, and in which five pitchers saw action, three of them Redlegs.

But the Reds came back to win the second game, 1-0, in a tight pitchers' duel in which Joe Nuxhall brought Cincinnati its first shutout this season.

Nuxhall yielded only two hits to the Giants, striking out eight and walking four. His double was the game's only hit better than a single.

The scoring Cincinnati run came in the second inning when Ted Kluszewski hit a single. Rookie Frank Robinson got on base when hit by a pitch from Ruben Gomez and Klu came home on a single by Smoky Burgess.

In the first game, the Reds built up an early four-run lead, then saw it melt in the later innings.

The split of two games allowed the Reds to climb back into second place in the National League, just behind Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati turns in at Philadelphia tonight for the first of three games with the Phillies. Hal Jeffcoat is slated to oppose Harvey Haddix.

opener. He started the Braves on the way in the second game with his ninth homer of the year in the second inning.

Tom Poholsky and Willard Schmidt, with an assist from Jim Konstanty, pitched St.Louis to its sweep at Pittsburgh, beating Vern Law and Luis Arroyo.

Roberts got slugging support from homers by Del Ennis and Willie Jones against the Cubs. He had a one-hit shutout until the seventh. Eddie Miksis homered and drove in three runs to back up Jones in the second game.

Minnie Minoso blasted four hits and Sherm Lollar and Luis Aparicio three each in the White Sox's first-game attack behind Dick Donovan. Chuck Stobbs, in trouble all the way, beat Chicago for the third time in the second game.

Ted Lepcio had a three-run homer and three singles and Jackie Jensen four singles in Boston's slaughter of Detroit.

Hector (Skinny) Brown won his fourth straight for Baltimore with an eight-hitter.

Plumbers Defeat Mt. Vernon Team

K & W Plumbing registered a 9-2 victory over Mount Vernon American Legion Saturday night at Garfield Park.

The winners clinched the verdict with a four-run uprising in the third frame after taking a 1-0 edge in the first. The first inning run producing single. The third inning came after Dick Gherman and Merle Daum reached base on errors and Bob Weston lashed a run-opened with Don Johnson reaching first on an error, Bob Schnelker cracking out a single and Gherman beating out an infield roller. Daum then belted a long three-base hit and then scored on a double by Bud Thorpe.

Four more runs were scored on a double by Bud Thorpe.

Four more runs were scored by the winners in the sixth. Jim Frank picked up a single and Schnelker smashed a home run. Wayne Weston and Gherman drew free passes and a triple by Bob McCrery drove them in.

Thorpe went all the way on the hill for the winners. He was nicked for two hits, home runs by Stout and Gillooley in the sixth inning. He struck out nine batters on the seven-inning stint.

Mount Vernon's Jones was tagged for 10 base hits by the Commercial League entry. He struck out four. Next out-of-league action for the Plumbers will be July 1 when they travel to North Lewisberg for a double header.

Gasoline Dealer Cited

David (Hap) Whitehill, Marion Sunoco dealer, has been named a winner of an award for service station cleanliness and will be one of six Sunoco dealers from an 18-county area surrounding Columbus to receive recognition at a dinner-award meeting in Columbus' Fort Hayes Hotel Wednesday night.

Mr. Whitehill, who operates station at 301 S. Main St., will receive a wrist watch and certificate of citation from the Sun Oil Co for his achievement.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK (AP) — A quiet mood prevailed on the stock market with price changes irregular and trading slow early this afternoon.

Fluctuations were kept generally within the range of a point.

Steels as a group were off as uncertainty prevailed regarding the labor negotiations. Most other divisions were mixed.

Volume was estimated at around 1½ million shares compared with 1,550,000 Friday.

Among the wider movers were Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott Copper and Youngstown Sheet & Tube off around a point.

Air Reduction, Dow Chemical and Caterpillar advanced close to a point.

U. S. Steel and Republic Steel lost ground fractionally. The rails were thoroughly mixed with Santa Fe retreating about a point and most other pivotal stocks in this group moving little either way.

General Motors was ahead fractionally and Chrysler was off a bit.

U. S. Treasury bonds had a tendency toward the upside.

Two Homes Are Damaged by Fire In Sycamore Area

SYCAMORE — Damage in the thousands of dollars resulted in two fires Saturday night in and near Sycamore investigated by the Sycamore fire department.

Damage was estimated at $5,000 in the first fire which occurred at 7:30 p.m. in a newly constructed building owned by Mrs. D. A. Mick.

Fire which originated in the panel of an electric stove, apparently from a short circuit, spread rapidly and destroyed an apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ohl, firemen said. An insurance office occupied by Mrs. Mick at the front of the building was not damaged.

The fire was discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Ohl, who had left the apartment for a short time. The loss is covered by insurance.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Turney Cochran, an aunt of Mrs. Ohl who resides east of Sycamore learned of the fire and rushed to the Ohl home.

While Mr. and Mrs. Cochran were gone, a pan of food left cooking on an electric stove in their farm home caught fire and extensively damaged the kitchen of the home as well as damaging the rest of the recently remodeled home. The farm is owned by Albert Dirringer of Tiffin.

No estimate was made on the damage to the Cochran home.

Seek Deliveries by End of June

Anticipated Price Rise Causing Rush for Steel

CLEVELAND (AP)—"Steel" Magazine today reported a last minute rush to get steel deliveries by the end of the month.

It said buyers were stepping up efforts to get shipments already promised them. Orders still could be placed for nearby delivery on some of the lesser items, such as some wire products and cold-fashioned bars.

Steel users are motivated in their efforts to get deliveries now by promise of higher prices in the second half of the year and by the possibility of a steel strike. Trade talk says prices may go up $8 to $15 a ton.

Regardless of uncertain price tags and delivery dates, pressure continues for shipments from railroad car shops and heavy construction and machinery accounts. Structurals and plates continue in short supply with structural awards running 40 per cent ahead of volume a year ago. The light, flat rolled items are moving slower. "Steel" said interest in the third quarter lags, particularly from automotive buyers.

—:—

THE PUBLICATION said there was little chance of getting in more of the major tonnage, although steel-making operations rose one-half percentage point to 97 per cent of the rated national ingot capacity, the first change in the production rate in a month.

Steel prices held steady, with "Steel's" composite on finished products unchanged at $128.98 net ton. Its price composite on steelmaking grades of scrap dropped to $46 a gross ton, a decline of 17 cents.

Irwin H. Such, editor-in-chief of "Steel," said new and unlimited horizons are being made for the metalworking industry by the "irresistible pressure of the American people for more goods and more time to enjoy them in a nation that is preparing to repel an atomic invasion."

—:—

HE SAID THE TOTAL output of goods and services produced in the nation in 1956 will establish a new record of nearly $2,400 a person. The figure, he said, may reach $3,200 by 1965.

"The challenge is clear," Such said. "In the immediate years ahead, America must increase her production one-third.

"It's no wender that industrial and government-financed research this year are at a new high of $4.5 billion-dollars—up 400 million dollars from 1955, and up 750 million dollars from 1954."

District ingot production rates included Youngstown 101 per cent of rated capacity, no change; Wheeling 100.5 per cent, no change; Cleveland, 103.5 per cent, up 4.5 points and Cincinnati 92.5 per cent, down 2 points.

Post Office Gets Citation for Safety

A second "Special Citation for Contributions to Highway Safety" in 1955 has been awarded the Post Office Department by the National Safety Council, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield reported today.

Mr. Summerfield said he will accept the award "on behalf of thousands of postal people who have led and stimulated local safety programs for postal vehicles over the nation." Acceptance ceremonies will be scheduled soon.

"The Post Office Department a few years ago had one of the worst traffic accident records in the entire federal government," Mr. Summerfield recalled in commenting on the award. "In 1953, the department initiated its first intensive safety program, which included safe driving instructions, as well as driver examination and physical reaction tests.

This program has resulted in a marked decrease in accidents, he reported. All local postal employes have participated in the safety movement, according to Homer D. Cole, Marion postmaster.

When racing began at old Monmouth Park in Red Bank, N. Y., in 1870, the events were run clockwise instead of counter clockwise as they are run today.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Ford Foundation Giving $26 Million In Hospital Grants

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ford Foundation says checks totaling $26,080,200 are being mailed this week to 959 hospitals in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

The payments are part of 200 million dollars in hospital grants approved by the foundation's trustees last December. Payments totaling 69 million dollars were made to 2,000 hospitals in April and May.

The foundation said Sunday it hopes all eligible hospitals will have received one half of their grants by July 31. The remaining half will be paid in March, 1957.

HOUSE PAINT
ONLY
$4.98 GALLON · $1.49 QUART

You'll be surprised at how easy it is to paint your house when you use Super-TEX self-cleaning House Paint. Goes on quickly, easily, without lap marks. Covers well. Lasts a long time, because it contains G-E Silicone, extra titanium. Self-cleaning, so it's always sparkling white. Beautiful modern colors, too.
FREE: "Do-It-Yourself" paint booklet, color card.
